Die Welt And the Facts

One of West Germany's most influential newspapers is Die Welt (The World), published in Hamburg. In a recent issue, the editor, understandably angry over the possibilities of Khrushchev's treaty with East Germany, wrote an article which, by its note of hysteria and irrational perspective, illustrates a difficult West German and Western alliance problem. The Die Welt article said, in part:

"The story of the so-called Berlin crisis, which is in reality a crisis in the alliance between (West) Germany and the West, can be summarized in the following imaginary dialogue:

Khrushchev: 'Give me Berlin.'

'The Western allies: 'No, no, never!'

Khrushchev: 'Well, then, give me Germany.'

'The allies, (hesitatingly): 'Well, all right.'"

The rest of the article contended Western acquiescence in a division of Germany would destroy the membership of West Germany in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and would turn the West Germans into "the bitterest and most revengeful" enemies of NATO.

"The (West) Germans," the article said, "would simply, and not without reason, come to the conclusion that the West is both weak and treacherous and that their choice in joining the Western Alliance was a mistaken one."

The Price

"They would understand that Russia will not offer them reunification solely in order to neutralize Germany, but only at the price of changing over from the Western Alliance to an alliance with the East."

"Many West Germans would then probably even welcome such a change of allies. It would be an agreeable means of revenging themselves on their betrayers."

These conclusions are, in so far as the facts are concerned, nonsense. If, as the Die Welt commentator so irrationally states, he would be willing to see communism sweep over West Germany, destroying its present life and its freedom (including that of Die Welt), then he may help restore harsh and painful reality to both his own people and those of the United States.

To suggest that West Germany would welcome such an act of madness merely to "get even," reveals a nationalism dangerously lacking in any element of balance. If the Die Welt writer wishes to hurry on another Gotterdammerung, or end of the world, for West Germany and freedom, he certainly may do so—until the Communists come to remove him.

The American people who think in terms of the old clichés need equally to understand that if Khrushchev announces a peace treaty with East Germany it will not, of itself, change anything. Also, it is simply not true to say that negotiations over the future of Berlin would be either appeasement or another Munich. Neither West Germany nor the West would be giving up anything. At Munich, a free and independent Czechoslovakia was sacrificed by Britain and France. It is, and has been, a Russian satellite.

Deprived Area

Germany lost a war. There were those who wished to make of Germany an area forever deprived of any independence or freedom of action. Out of the Western policy, despite its errors, came an amazing West Germany. This could not have happened had it not been for the strength of an intelligent German people and their will to sacrifice and work. It also could not have happened without the generous aid of the United States.

It is intellectually and factually dishonest for Die Welt, in its imaginary dialogue, to have Khrushchev say: "Give me Germany," and for the West to say, "Well, all right." The Russians already have East Germany.

We will choose war rather than surrender. But this is not necessarily the choice. If the status of West Berlin can be stabilized by a de jure manner, then freedom can grow stronger and more unified. No people have yet voluntarily joined communism.

Laos Picks Neutralist As Premier

Souvanna Phouma To Head Coalition

By JACQUES NERARD

(Copyright 1961 By The New York Times Co.) HIN HEUP, Laos—Prince Souvanna Phouma was chosen here Sunday to become premier of a new provisional coalition government of strife-torn Laos.

Although there has been no question for months that only Souvanna Phouma, a neutralist, could head a coalition regime, his selection Sunday was made possible by major concessions from the two other princes who head the Laotian right and left.

The premier-nominate still must be received in audience by King Savang Vattahama and be given the royal mandate to form a new government, but this is expected to be granted quickly.

Souvanna Phouma himself made the dramatic announcement of his nomination as premier at the close of a meeting of the princes who head the Laotian political factions at this heavily jungled conference site.

"VERY HAPPY"

Leaving Sunday's meeting, the neutralist leader beamed and told gathered correspondents:

"Gentlemen, I am very happy to announce to you that Prince Boun Oum and Prince Souphanouvong have agreed to our selecting my name and presenting it to his majesty the king as prime minister of a provisional coalition government. There are still some questions of detail to be worked out and the subcommittee will meet here Monday morning to discuss these. In the meantime I have charged Prince Boun Oum and Gen. Phoumi Nosavan to go to Luangprabang Monday and request an audience with the king for me as soon as possible."

SUDDEN DECISION

Boun Oum is premier of the rightwing government in Vientiane. Souphanouvong, Souvanna Phouma's halfbrother, is head of the pro-Communist Neo Lao Hak Xat party and its guerrilla army. Gen. Phoumi Nosavan is military strongman of the Vientiane regime and its vice premier.

Agreement on naming Souvanna Phouma came with suddenness at 4:30 p.m. (local time) after more than four hours of seemingly fruitless talks by the princes both in private and with their chief aides present.

The princes had met here for nearly five hours Friday and Saturday a subcommittee of their

FORD SETS SERIES PITCHING RECORD AS YANKS WIN, 7-0
Breaks Ruth's No-Score Record of 29½ Innings; Ford Has 32 Scoreless Innings

Yanks Blast Cincy, 7-0, Need but One for Title

CINCINNATI — Remarkable Whitey Ford, who broke Babe Ruth's pitching record as New York whaled Cincinnati, 7-0, Sunday afternoon, accomplished a feat that the Reds and Pittsburgh were unable to achieve in four games.

Ford knocked himself out of the box on one pitch after a run of 32 consecutive scoreless innings to break the World Series record of 29 2/3 established by Babe Ruth in 1916-18.

LEFT DANGLING

A wayward swing in the batter's box in the sixth on which the ball ricocheted against his right toe sent Ford to a shower. Pittsburgh, in two games last season, and Cincinnati, in 14 frames this outing, were unable to cash a run off Ford. After pitching to one batter in the sixth, Ford handed the ball to Jim Coates who fired four more blanks at the anemic Reds.

Ford and Coates left Cincinnati dangling from the hangman's noose, and Ralph Terry can complete the execution Monday. Down 3-1 in the series they were supposed to lose, the Reds are banking on Joey Jay to gain a reprieve.

JAY LONE WINNER

But Jay, Cincy's lone winner via a four-hitter in New York, must have some help from his mates who now have scored two runs in the last two games.

Cincinnati gleaned only five singles off Ford and Coates, while the Yanks roughed up Jim O'Toole and Jim Brosnan for the series high total of 11.

In chalking an unprecedented ninth World Series triumph, Ford did not permit a Cincy runner beyond second. He yielded four singles before Coates came on after Elito Chacon singled to open the sixth.

During the unprosperous afternoon the 32,589 highly partisan fans had little to shout about. Their heroes were in a docile mood, and they don't cheer the enemy often in Crosley Field.

Ford did get a hand when an announcement of his new record was made after Chacon rolled out in the third, extending the skin to 30. And Mickey Mantle, who singled before his sore hip forced him out in the fourth, also was mildly applauded. They booed Roger Maris, the homer man who beat their Reds with a last-inning clout Saturday.

Dr. Tompsett said the treatment has not been discussed with Rayburn.

silent and so were the Reds and the hitless Maris.

O'Toole, brilliant young lefty who lost the opening duel against Ford when his mates were skunked, 2-0, was rematched with the chairman of the Yankee pitching board.

He was off to a strong start, but his control wasn't sharp in the fourth. Maris drew a lead walk, buzzed to third on Mantle's single and came across when Howard rapped into a DP.

With two down in the fifth, O'Toole created a jam by walking Ford. Subsequent singles by Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek promoted a run.

O'Toole was hoisted for a

Kennedy Pushes Talks on Berlin At Envoy Level

Hardening Red Stand Bars Gains

By MAX FRANKEL

(Copyright 1961 By The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON — The Kennedy administration hopes to continue its conversations with the Russians on Berlin and Germany at the ambassadorial level despite the lack of progress in exploratory talks over the past three weeks.

Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., the U.S. ambassador to Moscow, began here this weekend to acquaint himself with the conversations conducted by President John F. Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

NO PROGRESS

These talks, Allied sources agreed, have been inconclusive and still far too vague to justify optimism about the chances of formal negotiations in the near future. Washington hoped, however, that Britain, France and West Germany will agree to the plan to have Thompson continue to pursue discussion of the main issues with Soviet officials in Moscow, starting next week.

Well-informed U.S. sources said Sunday they would not go as far as some Allied diplomats have in characterizing the Kennedy-Gromyko conversation Friday night as having gone "pretty badly." They preferred instead to rest on the judgment that there had been no progress at the two-hour White House conference.

SEES HARDENING

But Wilhelm Grewe, the West German ambassador to Washington, gave public support to the thesis that the Soviet position seemed to be hardening again.

Speaking on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" Sunday afternoon, Grewe said Gromyko's presentation at the White House seemed Brandt Confident Of Defense by U.S.

By GERD WILCKE

(Copyright 1961 By The New York Times Co.)

BONN — West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt said Sunday that his two-day visit to New York had convinced him that the United States would maintain the freedom of Berlin "at all costs."

In separate but similar statements made in Frankfurt, where he changed planes on his return flight from the United States, and in West Berlin, the mayor assured Germans that they could rely on Washington.

He said that anyone doubting American determination to defend its rights in the former Ger-

Rayburn Starts Taking An Experimental Drug

By PRESTON MCGRAW

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — House Speaker Sam Rayburn's physicians began administering experimental drugs to the cancer-stricken congressional leader Sunday, although there is no known cure for his illness.

Doctors at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas said the 79-year-old Rayburn rested comfortably and had visits from several political leaders, including a second talk with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, came to see Rayburn Friday.

He also talked with Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., Rep. Homer Thornberry, D-Tex., and Leroy Collins, former governor of Florida, also visited the hospital.

The drug, injected Sunday, was called "5-fluorouracil," which the Food and Drug Administration labels experimental. It is not used as a cure but to stop the spread of cancerous growths.

Dr. Ralph Tompsett, director of internal medicine at Baylor, said the chemotherapy treatment would be given Rayburn each day "possibly as long as a week or so."

Dr. Tompsett said the treatment has not been discussed with Rayburn.

Airport Will Close Saturday For National Defense Drill

Atlanta's normally humming, hectic airport will resemble a jet-age ghost city for 12 hours here Saturday.

If you were planning a plane trip between 12 noon and midnight, forget it.

All commercial flights will be canceled during that 12-hour period by the second annual nationwide "Sky Shield" ordered by the Defense department for a dress rehearsal of Canadian - North American defense against Russian bomber attack.

Most airlines operating in and out of the Atlanta airport have revised Saturday schedules at other times of the day and have an order to "Scramble" come through.

The NORAD tests will affect civilian flights and planes all over the country, and times of the 12-hour commercial flights shutdown will vary over the country according to time zones.

Atlanta's 12 noon to midnight Saturday shutdown will hit the Atlanta airport at a peak traffic period, although Saturday is usually a "lighter day," traffic-wise, than weekdays.

An airport spokesman reminded that peak loads here are from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and noon

Storm Kills Family of 5 On Alaska Fishing Trip

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — A Tacoma, Wash., family of five including a 9-month-old girl, was swept to its death Sunday in the icy waters of the Pacific Ocean when a storm smashed their fishing boat 90 miles west of here.

The Alaska State Police identified the victims as Don Moe, his wife, Shirley; two sons, Paul and David, about 6 or 7 years old, and daughter, Donna.

The bodies of Mrs. Moe and the two boys were found by a fishing vessel that responded to a "mayday" plea for help from the 37-foot boat "Partner," owned by the Moes.

Moe and the baby girl were not found, but the Coast Guard had little hope for their lives.

Only splinters remained of the boat the family has been using to fish from since early summer in the salmon beds on the coast.

2,000 Storm Coed Dormitory At Wisconsin, Stone Police

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — An estimated 2,000 youths were dispersed by a threat of tear gas early Sunday after milling through the downtown streets here.

In the nearly three-hour demonstration they hurled stones, firecrackers and obscenities at police officers.

Authorities said Sunday the incident started when a young woman, who has not been identified, left a beer tavern and ran into busy State Street. Using her head scarf as a cape, she acted out the role of a bullfighter. She waved the scarf in front of moving automobiles and brought traffic to a halt. A small crowd gathered and the demonstration began. The girl left.

Five persons were arrested at the height of the demonstration and charged with unlawful assembly or with disorderly conduct.

At one point the crowd marched several blocks to Langdon Hall, a dormitory for women on the University of Wisconsin campus. The group shouted: "We want panties, we want panties."

The demonstrators then moved back to State Street, the city's main artery between the university and the state Capitol. A stone was thrown into the rear seat of a police car through an open window and the radiator of another was ruptured by a blast from a powerful firecracker. A thrown firecracker exploded near one officer, but he was not injured.

Policemen pleaded over loudspeakers for the crowd to disperse and finally succeeded in breaking up the demonstration by threatening to use tear gas.

The outbreak began about 1 a.m. when taverns were closing.

Keep Hoffa Out, Union Chief Urges AFL-CIO

By EMANUEL PERLMUTTER
(Copyright 1961 by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK — The international president of the 280,000-member Communication Workers of America Sunday denounced James L. Hoffa and urged the merged labor government not to readmit him and his Teamster Union to its fold.

Joseph A. Beirne, head of the Communication Workers, declared it would be "both a capitulation to immorality and a practical mistake for the AFL-CIO to permit Hoffa and his crowd back into the federation."

He insisted that the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations either charter a new truck drivers international union or set up an organizing committee to achieve this end.

Beirne took the unusual step of calling a press conference to castigate the controversial head of the Teamsters, who were expelled from the merged labor movement in 1957 for corruption.

He said that a resolution by the Communication Workers urging that the AFL-CIO set up a rival teamsters union was on the agenda for discussion at meetings of the 29-member executive council of the federation beginning here Tuesday.

The council meeting will be preceded by a meeting Monday of the federation's general board, which is convening to discuss organizational problems. Beirne said that the subject of a rival teamsters union might be brought up here.

Profit Plan Rejected by Auto Union

From Press Dispatches
KENOSHA, Wis.—Local 72 of the United Auto Workers rejected by a narrow margin Sunday night the historic profit-sharing plan worked out with American Motors Corp., leaving the future of the proposal uncertain.

The rejection of the plan was announced by Jack Beni, union president. He declined to give vote figures, but said the defeat "was by a narrow margin."

There was a report that the rejection came on less than 100 votes, with only about one-fourth of the local's 12,000 members voting.

NEVER BE PASSED
Beni said "this contract will never be passed through this local." He was uncertain of the future of the plan, saying that decision would be made by the UAW American Motors Council in Detroit.

In Detroit, meanwhile, Federal mediation chief William E. Simkin said Sunday night he was "hopeful" Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union would reach an early agreement to end a nationwide strike of 120,000 workers.

Simkin commented after week-end meetings with UAW President Walter P. Reuther and Ford Vice President Malcolm L. Denise to get a progress report on their effort to end Tuesday's walkout.

MAY WORSEN
But even as Simkin spoke there were reports the strike might worsen. One Detroit area UAW local composed of Ford engineering workers sought help to keep salaried employees off their jobs. Another local was reported considering the same action.

He asserted that the membership of the Teamsters Union had declined from 1,565,017 to 1,431,147 since 1957 when Hoffa became its president.

Caroline Climbs to Top of Yacht--and Daddy Follows

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—Cruising on a 92-foot yacht can be pretty frustrating for a 3-year-old girl. The rails are high and it is hard to see over them. Caroline Kennedy did something about it Sunday afternoon.

She climbed to the very top of the White House yacht Honey Fitz as it cruised in Narragansett Bay. Her father, President John F. Kennedy, followed.

It was a heavily overcast afternoon, too bleak for Mrs. Kennedy to water ski, so the family decided to cruise. They went to sea off the famous Bailey's Beach, picked up Rhode Island's Democratic Sen. Claiborne Pell and his wife in a White House speedboat, then put back into the bay.

With the small pleasure craft following the Honey Fitz, the Sunday afternoon armada headed toward the sea.

Some of the grownups were in the main cabin watching the World Series on television. The President was seated in the fantail talking with two old friends, Charles Bartlett, Washington, and K. L. Billings, New York.

Caroline was getting restless and her father apparently sensed it.

To the amazement of small craft occupants putting along beside the Honey Fitz, the President and Caroline appeared in the bow of the Honey Fitz. They sat down and dangled their legs over the side.

At one point, Caroline lay down on her tummy to look over the side at the anchor resting in its hawse pipe. The President followed suit and Caroline kicked her heels in delight.

Later, he hoisted Caroline up over his head to the boat deck level. Then he climbed up himself, moving backwards along some stanchions to avoid strain on his back.

The boat deck was not high enough and Caroline pointed to the roof of the pilot house. The President nodded. He lifted Caroline again and she stood alone, arms outstretched in the wind, on the highest point of the yacht save the mainmast, itself, which is too cluttered with wires and gadgets for comfortable climbing.

Kennedy did not follow Caroline to the top of the pilot house, but remained on the boat deck. Finally, he lifted the little girl down and they walked along the upper deck to the rear portion which overlooks the fantail.

Shortly after 4 p.m. the yacht returned to her berth at Hammersmith Farm where the Kennedys are spending the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss. The cruise had lasted a little over three hours.

Susan's Joining the Clan

Chiang Softening On Mongolia Bid

(Copyright 1961 by The New York Times Co.)
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Nationalist China's chief delegate to the United Nations indicated Sunday night that his government might be backing away from its previous hard line against admitting Outer Mongolia to the U.N.

Dr. T. T. Tsiang said that on the question of Outer Mongolia's admission "the final decision of my government has not been made." The issue "is still under careful consideration," Dr. Tsiang declared.

His statement surprised observers. Previously, Nationalist China had declared that it would use its veto in the Security Council, if necessary to block the admission of Outer Mongolia.

Last month Premier Chen Cheng of Nationalist China said during a visit to Washington that his country would "exercise every power stipulated in the U.N. Charter" to block Outer Mongolia's admission.

In the current issue of Life magazine, an article quotes President Chiang Kai-shek as saying that Nationalist China "would not hesitate to bar the Chinese Communists and Outer Mongolia at any cost."

Nationalist China has been under pressure not to veto Outer Mongolia, regarded as a Soviet satellite, lest the Soviet Union block another candidate, Mauritania, which is supported by the African nations.

Dr. Tsiang, who appeared on TV's "Meet the Press," admitted

Kremlin Explodes 19th Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia Sunday detonated its 19th atomic blast since resuming tests Sept. 1. Like the previous Soviet shots, the explosion was in the atmosphere where it spread radioactive fallout.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced that the explosion was set off in the Arctic near Novaya Zemlya, the site of previous Soviet tests.

The blast was described as in the "low-yield range." This meant the explosion was measured in kilotons, or the equivalent of thousands of tons of TNT.

This was far below the multi-megaton blasts—measured in millions of tons of TNT—Russia has set off during the current series.

E. German Police Fake Escape, Gun Befrienders

BERLIN (AP) — Communist police staged a mock escape attempt Sunday night, then opened fire on four West Berlin civilians who tried to help them.

West Berlin police said two of the West Berliners escaped unhurt, but that the two others were believed captured by the Communists. The police said it was not known if they were wounded.

Four other West Berliners were captured in an attempt to get their girl friends out of East Berlin.

It was the second time in two days that Red police—involved in almost daily shooting incidents during the past week—have dragged West Berliners across the concrete and barbed wire barrier into East Berlin.

Four West Berliners were seized Saturday after approaching the barrier from the western side in the French sector. Three were released after being held 10 hours. The fourth was wounded by Communist submachine gun fire and still is missing.

Rural Voters Carry Power

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Rural voters have more than twice as much representation as their city brethren in state legislatures in the nation, according to a study released Saturday by University of Virginia population experts.

The university's Bureau of Public Administration said the study indicated that voting power in big-city counties with more than 500,000 residents has been declining steadily for the past 50 years, while voting power in rural areas with fewer than 25,000 residents has been gaining.

Kennedy Is Going West to Speak

By CORNELIUS F. HURLEY
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President John F. Kennedy is going to the West Coast and the Southwest next month on a speaking tour, the vacation White House announced Sunday.

This raises a possibility the President may join some of his Cabinet in telling the people what Congress did—and what he hopes it will do to further his New Frontier program.

The White House announced last week that teams of administration officials are going out to hold seminars throughout the country in the next few weeks. Ten cities are on the schedule and more are to come. San Francisco is one of them.

AT SEATTLE
The President will be on the West Coast to speak Nov. 16 at the 100th anniversary of the University of Washington in Seattle.

The following night he goes to Phoenix, Ariz., to speak at a dinner in honor of Sen. Carl A. Hayden, D-Ariz., who has served in Congress longer than any other man.

Hayden was elected to the U. S. House in 1911—the year Arizona became a state and has been in the House or Senate ever since.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said other stops in the West are under consideration but that plans were not firm.

INVITED TO OKLAHOMA
The President has been invited to Poteau, Okla., Oct. 29 for the dedication of a new highway, he said, but no decision has been made on that visit.

Despite cloudy skies and a cool breeze, the President and Mrs. Kennedy again went boating Sunday on the presidential yacht, Honey Fitz. Their guests included Lemoyne Billings of New York an old friend who spent many weekends with the President this summer in Hyannis Port, Mass.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy attended 10 o'clock Mass at St. Mary's church in Newport, where they were married eight years ago. A crowd of about 1,000, half in the church and the rest on the street, was on hand to see them.

NAVY BLUE SUIT
Mrs. Kennedy wore a navy blue suit with small gold buttons and a large, dark-blue tam hat.

After church the President had his daily intelligence briefing from Gen. Godfrey McHugh, a military aid.

Freeman Starts Tour

DeKalb Will Vote On Bonds Tuesday

$22.9 Million Issue Calls
For 10-Point Improvements

By GEORGE HUTCHESON
DeKalb voters will go to the polls Tuesday to decide the fate of a $22.9 million bond issue.

Polls in the county's 48 precincts, including six new ones, will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. This election will be the first time these polling places will have been used.

According to DeKalb Ordinary Mrs. Katherine Mann, people voting at these new polls were notified of the changes in the early part of the summer.

NEW PRECINCTS

The Panthersville district was changed to Southwest DeKalb; and two precincts, Wadsworth and Toney were created. The new Fernbank precinct was part of Emory. Laurel Ridge was formed from parts of W. D. Thomson and Medlock. Kiltredge was formed from W. D. Thomson and Johnson Estates; Sagamore originated from W. D. Thomson.

The 10-point bond program has been endorsed by the DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce, the Glenwood Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters and numerous other civic and business groups in the county.

In lending his support to the bond issue, William C. Thibadeau, president of the DeKalb Chamber of Commerce, said, "This entire long-range program of capital improvements has been well thought out and discussed, and will give DeKalb a program of responsible economic planning."

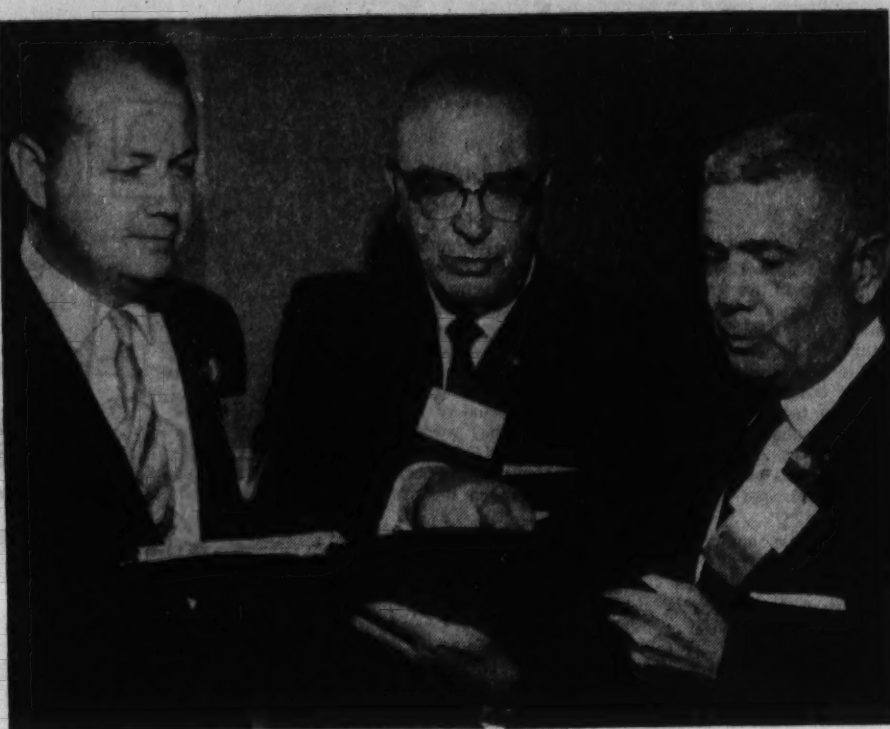

Commission Chairman C. O. Emmerich has waged a personal campaign to bring the bond program to the attention of DeKalb voters. He has appeared at numerous gatherings of civic organizations and neighborhood groups throughout the county speaking about the bond issue and answering questions.

"There will be no tax increase in this bond issue. DeKalb's rate of growth and increasing tax digest will pay for these services included in the bond issue," Commissioner Emmerich has said.

CHERRY BACKS

In relating the effect of the bond program on the schools, County School Superintendent Jim Cherry said, "The school system will benefit directly and indirectly from the approval of these bonds."

The 10 points of the program call for an incinerator, a Central Health Center, branch library, and expansion of the main library, five new fire stations, extension of the sewer lines 31.04 miles, location of water mains in five new areas, construction of new roads and resurfacing of some old roads, a new Justice-Education-Administration building, expansion of the parks program, and improvements for the DeKalb Peachtree Airport.

Georgia's Kiwanians Convening

Kiwanians from throughout Georgia gathered in Atlanta Sunday for the 42nd annual district convention.

Registration for the three-day convention began at 10 a. m. Sunday morning in the lobby of the Dinkler - Plaza. The convention's keynote address was delivered Sunday night by Jim Cook, president - elect of the Atlanta Kiwanis Club. Larry P. Martin, DeKalb district governor, will preside over the convention.

The Memorial Hour address was delivered Sunday night by the Rev. J. D. Grey, New Orleans, past president of the Southern Baptist Convention. Dr. Grey's subject was "The Price Tag on Integrity."

The convention's business session will begin Monday morning and continue Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning.

The Governor's Banquet will be held Tuesday night. The main address of the evening will be delivered by Al Tully, Mobile, Ala., past president of Kiwanis International.

A "Climax Luncheon" will be held Tuesday with Dr. Albert Burke as speaker. Dr. Burke was formerly director of graduate studies of the conservation program at Yale University. He will address the convention on "Ideals and Reality."

John Sibley to Hail United Appeal Chiefs

John A. Sibley, chairman of the executive committee for the Trust Company of Georgia and chairman of the 1960 General Assembly's Committee on Schools, will be the keynote speaker Thursday at the United Appeal's first recognition meeting for pilot campaigns.

The announcement was made by Wilton Looney, vice president, Retail Credit Co., and one of three campaign co-general chairmen.

SALUTE BY SIBLEY

"It is fitting that a citizen as distinguished as John A. Sibley, who has filled an important role in leading the metropolitan community and state toward maturity and progress, should salute those groups in Greater Atlanta who are charting the course for a successful United Appeal," Looney said.

He added that some 40 business firms and departments in federal, state and local government had agreed to participate in the United Appeal's first pilot program designed to test the effectiveness of payroll-giving plans in raising local standards of giving.

Looney pointed out that Greater Atlanta's support of its United Appeal, based on effective buying income, trails that of other Southern cities such as Mobile, Houston, Charlotte, New Orleans, Birmingham and Jacksonville.

MIST GIVE MORE

"If we are to meet the needs of local people, we must increase our giving. Therefore, we have developed local standards and are asking everyone to pledge his fair share for United Appeal health, welfare and youth guidance services," he added.

Goal for this year's United Appeal is $9,817,547, the amount a citizens' budget committee says is needed to continue the services of 69 Community Chest agencies and the many services of the Red Cross.

The campaign began Sept. 25 and will continue through Nov. 9. Thursday's meeting will be held at the Metropolitan Atlanta YMCA at 12:15 p.m.

Divorce Seeker Asks $100,000 of Lawyer

AMERICUS — Attorney W. W. McKinnon of Preston, an invalid who was recently disbarred from practice in federal and state courts, faces a $100,000 damage suit here filed by Mrs. Bobby Jean Long Thrift, who claims he obtained illegal divorce papers for her.

Mrs. Thrift said she went to McKinnon and asked him to obtain the divorce and that he later told her the matter had been taken care of. She said McKinnon presented her with divorce papers which appeared to be legal and that she later married a soldier, H. L. Milton.

When she tried to obtain a certified copy of the divorce papers from the clerk of Columbus Superior Court, she learned that her "divorce" had never been filed and that the judge whose name was on the document had never signed the divorce papers, she contends.

5 Cottages Looted

CLAYTON—Burglars have entered five cottages on Lake Burton taking a wide variety of goods ranging from outdoor motors to cooking utensils, Rabun County Sheriff Lamon T. Queen said Saturday. Queen said the complete list of the stolen goods had not yet been completed, but several radios, motors, and other hardware goods have been reported missing.

Rep. Kidd Urges State Fair Funds

TIFFIN—Rep. Culver Kidd of Baldwin County, a candidate for lieutenant governor in 1962, recently was in Tiffin for small group meetings and individual talks concerning the race. Kidd discussed the possibility of establishing state fair funds to be matched by counties for erecting permanent buildings for fairs. He also discussed other points listed on his platform for lieutenant governor.

Disclosure that the Soviet group had left for New York after attending an international astronomical conference here last week started rumors that the State department had reversed its refusal to permit the New York City visit.

However, a State department spokesman said the Russians were allowed to go to New York only to catch their plane back to Moscow, and definitely would not be allowed to stay for the meeting. The Coliseum affair is billed as a "space flight report to the nation."

The ban was imposed last week in retaliation for similar action by Soviet officials with regard to visits by Americans.

Shot Kills Downtown Prowler

A Negro prowler was shot fatally in downtown Atlanta at midnight Sunday after a shot from the same man's gun missed him earlier.

Jack Hawthorn, 21, of 205 Mangum St., NW was shot through the head by Boyd E. Taylor, 60, of 327 St. Paul St., SE, who was looking after the building, Detective M. H. Medert said.

The shooting took place at 11½ Forsyth St., NE.

Police reported that earlier in the night, Taylor had seen two prowlers, one near a window apparently trying to get into the building and another standing on a fire escape. He told police he shot at the one on the fire escape and apparently missed.

Police said Taylor shot Hawthorn later on the roof of the building.

2 Boys Loot Car Here Of $80 and Binoculars

Two boys broke into a car at Grant Park Sunday afternoon and ran off with $80 and a pair of binoculars worth about $100, police reported.

Witnesses told police they saw the boys running from the car owned by Jack Charl, 32, of 1730 Dunwoody Terrace, NE, and break into another car where they got two teddy bears.

The witnesses said the two dropped the teddy bears and ran when they noticed they had been seen.

Charl said they had entered his car by breaking a window and that they had also taken a department store charge plate and other items.

Witnesses described the boys as 12 and 15 years old and "in need of haircuts," according to police reports. The older boy wore a black leather jacket and the other a brown jacket, white shirt and black pants.

Showdown Looms in Southeast Asia; Military Threat Isn't All the Problem

Before any settlement of the Berlin crisis is reached, the United States may well find itself involved in another equally as great in Southeast Asia. That's the ominous word from allied military experts who have been conferring in Bangkok about the role of SEATO in the deepening trouble.

Already there are military crises in South Viet Nam and Laos. The conflict in Laos is expected again to become large-scale warfare in the coming weeks. The Communist-directed insurrection in South Viet Nam, supported by the North Vietnamese, is approaching that scale. The showdown in the whole area could come this winter.

If SEATO fails to meet the challenge, the result could be a Communist-dominated Southeast Asia. Their task is complicated by lack of will to resist and lack of direction and power in the threatened nations.

Writing in the September issue of The New Republic, Denis Werner, an Australian specialist on Far East affairs, suggests that the area is being lost by the West rather than being won by the Communists. Communist tactics of political and economic infiltration are the same "standard technique now in use in all underdeveloped regions, including Africa and Latin America."

Mr. Werner sees the problem as not all military but a failure of Western policies. "The underdeveloped world," he writes, "is a rural slum and conditions in the most depressed areas have failed to improve primarily because the prices for the raw materials they produce have fallen in recent years while the materials manufactured from them have been rising. . . . The West buys more and more and pays less and less and sells more and more at higher and higher prices. The deficit is met only by huge injections of Western, principally U.S. aid. In short, one unsalubrious effect of the aid programs has been to subsidize raw material exploitation."

Unless this process, this imbalance, can be mended, Mr. Werner concludes, "in time we shall be ousted from every nook and cranny in the world."

Even should the military threat be contained, the greater problem of economic development to prevent a gradual Communist takeover is yet to be solved.

Floyd County Takes Profitable Action

Floyd County is the latest addition to the growing list of counties that have taken steps toward a tax reevaluation program.

In the case of Floyd, an outside firm was awarded the contract to do the reappraising. Some counties choose local personnel for such a task in order to keep costs down while others had rather spend more in order to obtain the services of experts from elsewhere. The argument in favor of the latter course is a valid one—a much stronger likelihood of complete impartiality.

The cost of the Floyd survey is listed as $231,830. It is hoped that a portion of the amount can be borrowed from the state.

One thing is for sure, though, judging from the experience of other counties. The money spent for tax reevaluation is one of the best investments a governing body can make because of the previously unlisted property added to the tax digest, the establishment of a realistic tax structure under which each person pays his just share, lower millage rates and a more attractive outlook for industrialization.

Cravey Should Pay For His Own Study

State Insurance Commissioner Zack D. Cravey has been told by a Fulton Superior Court judge to restudy some proposed adjustments in fire insurance rates.

Cravey turned around and asked Gov. Ernest Vandiver for $32,500 in state funds to pay for the study.

Cravey gave no details about the $32,500 figure, but two things come to mind: First, the judge's ruling was 32 pages long. Thus Cravey's request for funds comes to $1,000 a page, plus $500 for, let us say, incidental expenses.

Second, Cravey ought to have enough money in his budget already to pay for whatever insurance studies he has to make. So let Cravey make his study without billing the taxpayers an extra $32,500.

Mrs. K. Should Have A Talk with Husband

Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev told a group of Western "peace marchers" in Moscow that the Soviet Union is making no effort to build air-raid shelters.

"There is no defense in a nuclear war," she is quoted. "Therefore, we are not building any bomb shelters."

Perhaps Mrs. Khrushchev should talk to her husband, who has been threatening the world with nuclear destruction and risking destruction of the Soviet Union in a trumped-up crisis at Berlin. Maybe she also should talk to him about resuming nuclear tests and his refusing all efforts to reach worldwide agreement on banning nuclear weapons.

The Soviets may or may not be building bomb shelters. Mrs. K. says not but adds that the Russian people don't concern themselves about such things as nuclear tests. In view of her husband's speeches and his reckless course, we trust the American people will continue to take measures to protect themselves.

Farm Expenses Climb Faster Than Income

Latest figures from U.S. Department of Commerce's Atlanta Field Office provide good insight into Georgia's agricultural pattern.

The $897 million gross income realized by farmers in the state last year was the 15th largest in the nation.

Production expenses ate $628.8 million out of the total. This, too, was the 15th highest in the nation.

But the rate of costs has been climbing faster than that of income. There was a 22.1 per cent increase in realized gross income from 1950 to 1960 compared to a 73.3 per cent leap in outgo.

Wrapped up in those figures are the heart of the farm dilemma and why small, uneconomical farm units are finding it increasingly difficult to make ends meet.

Georgia's 31 per cent surpassed only Alabama and Mississippi.

Significantly, Idaho was listed at the top with 80.7 per cent. There voters are allowed to register up to three days before an election.

Now Georgia has another mystery on its hands. No one knows for sure when the state primary will be held next year. The last General Assembly changed the law and left it up to the State Democratic Executive Committee to set the date. It can pick any day of the year it wants to. The Almanac could be consulted and the position of the moon at a given time used as a criteria or, heaven forbid, the majority of the membership on the committee might lean toward a particular candidate and set the date early, mid-way or late in the year depending on which they thought would be most favorable to his chances.

With all this uncertainty and the ridiculous six-month deadline for registration, the best bet for those who have not qualified to vote is to do so now. The law stops you from waiting until you know what the whole shooting match is about.—BILL HARRELL.

What a Wide, Wonderful Country

SAN FRANCISCO—The Convair 440 jet snarled down the runway at Atlanta Airport. At 115 miles per hour the pilot could not stop; he was committed to takeoff. At 155 the nose wheel came up. She lifted steeply so the jet blast would disturb fewer ground dwellers in Hapeville and College Park.

Within seconds the transcontinental Delta liner was climbing 1,000 feet per minute at a speed of 400 miles per hour, stretching toward the Pacific coast of America.

At 20,000 feet pilot and co-pilot placed a stand-by harness on their heads so that in case of pressure failure they would have instant oxygen. At 27,000 feet the jet leveled and entered cruising speed of 625 miles per hour. Less than one hour later Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi had passed and we were on the ground at New Orleans.

Then off again, and within a span of minutes the wheels again were thumping down and we were at Dallas. Then off again. . . .

From the pilot's seat you suddenly could scan a new and still unfamiliar part of America. At 30,000 feet over the Texas panhandle there was no sense of noise or motion. A deceptively gentle hissing sound was the only indicator that we were traveling 85 per cent as fast as the sound which an ax blow, struck by a visible man on a distant log in your boyhood, took to reach your ears.

The pilot had to fly on his gauges because the seat of his pants could register only the new vertigo of stillness, high on the deep blue threshold which the astronauts are crossing.

And the earth of west Texas, New Mexico and Nevada looked little different from what man may see when he makes his final approach to the moon. This is a strange, vacant America. (When we crossed Wichita Falls where I took primary flight training, Opie Shelton of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce rudely ruined my description of my own exploits by reminding me on his record as a World War II fighter pilot; it included belly-landing a P-40 Tomahawk because he simply forgot to put his wheels down. "If I had destroyed one more American plane," Opie said, "the Germans would have given me the Iron Cross.")

From Amarillo to the Sierra Nevada—a long way even by jet—America is a moonscape of waterless wasteland. An occasional road goes from one side to the other of it. About the only useful purpose it could serve would be for testing A-bombs—and that, as we passed Los Alamos, is what we found we have used it for.

Then suddenly we topped the Sierra Nevada—mountains the color of elephant hide with a stubble of trees and blue lakes cupped in the summits. Then down, after endless desert, over green fields and orchards again—fertile plains walled by the Sierra against the Pacific. And down into this Western realm of gold we dropped, while a high jet bomber drew a vapor trail, which laid a straight rope of shadow across the land below us. This plank and stucco Nice, diamond of American cities, was waiting here hospitably on its hills, quartered by clouds and washed by an ocean opposite the Atlantic, and you could only think—one zip from Atlanta—what a wide, wonderful country this is.

More Reports (Bang) Coming

WASHINGTON—On Sept. 10, after Sen. Russell and his gang had so completely beaten a move to change the rules of the Senate, the feeling in many quarters was that the civil rights issue was dead, as dead as a lit string of firecrackers that had been doused with a pail of water.

This was not just a Southern feeling. Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Senate majority leader, told a wounded Sen. Keating of the Upstate crowd that it was not his (Mansfield's) intention to bring the rules change resolution up again this year, early next year or medium next year or late next year.

Senate rules and civil rights are the same fight these days. No wonder Southerners thought civil rights was a dead issue.

Suddenly the quiet was broken. The firecrackers weren't soaked, merely dampened. Slowly the spark moved down the string of fuse, exploding one firecracker after another, disturbing the Southern congressmen's blissful sleep.

On Sept. 23 the President nominated Thurgood Marshall as a judge on the Second Circuit Court of Appeals. (Bang!) Southerners would have to fight that one when it came time for Senate approval. Not because Marshall is a Negro, but because he is so closely identified with the NAACP and its success in the courts of the Republic.

Two days later the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights came out with its recommendations for ending segregation in all school districts by 1963. (Bang!)

Nixon Deserves A Fair Shake

WASHINGTON—A fair reading of the evidence now strongly indicates that "not guilty" is the fair verdict in the latest attempted smear of Richard Nixon. But what will the professional Nixon-haters now say: what will say those who for a decade have pursued this lonely and battered politician on the theory that from sin there is no redemption, from wrong no forgiveness, and that no amount of good in a man's later career can atone for bad in its early part?

Goodwin Knight, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of California, has just been repudiated in his effort to destroy Nixon as his primary opponent before their contest had really begun.

Knight's charge that the former vice president through an emissary tried to buy him out of the race with the offer of a high appointive office has collapsed. Prosecutor Knight's own chosen star witness, financier J. H. Edgerton, has denied it totally, wholly and convincingly.

In any court of law this would be enough, surely, to acquit Nixon. Still, it will be interesting to see the reaction of the glandular anti-Nixonites, those who think with their feelings and tear ducts and clutch their animosity to him to their hearts as proudly as they proclaim their righteousness.

There was a time in his long past when Nixon's political conduct was rough, indeed. There

Georgians Continue to Express Views On Death Penalty for 15-Year-Old Boy

Atlanta—I am appalled and shocked to find that I am a part of society so barbarous that it could even contemplate taking the life of a 15-year-old child. And I emphasize "child." For us to take the life of any human being is in itself legalized murder, but at least, in the case of an adult, he knows, and his act is a calculated risk. We do not kill the mentally deficient, no matter how heinous their crime. In our great mercy, we say they are not "responsible."

Is a 15-year-old boy responsible? He is not considered responsible enough to vote, have legal rights, drive a car, or to be the recipient of any of our privileges—just our death penalty.

I do not condone this boy's act. It is a terrible thing. But we will accomplish nothing by extracting this eye for an eye. If we consider him, this child, to be a menace to our society, lock him up, teach him about our society, see if he cannot be salvaged.

Please God, do not let us join him in the crime of murder.

MARJORIE PEELER.

Athens—Please let me say that the illustration by Baldy in Thursday's issue of The Constitution should make cold chills run through the bodies of everyone who sees it, and make them ashamed to sit idly by while a child is sent to the electric chair.

Why do the people of Georgia allow their state to be so unfavorable to the state with the highest rate of electrocutions in America? Murder is a terrible thing, and some punishment must be administered, but not another murder.

I am the mother of two children, and I feel very strongly about this entire issue. However, I do not speak because of a sentiment of motherhood alone but because I know, as does every other citizen of this state whether they admit it or not, that situations such as this are completely unjust. We are too rapidly becoming a state, as well as a nation, who has forgotten its founding principles, one of which is a republic of the people, by the people, and for the people, and what is responsible for this? INERTIA OF THE PEOPLE.

MRS. J. E. CRAWFORD.

Thomson—To the Governor of Georgia: If you let them execute that 15-year-old boy from Jasper County it will be a terrible blot on the State of Georgia. Not only that, but all mankind. If it happens, then we too will be murderers.

And Mr. Governor if you, by law cannot stop this thing from happening, then get on television, radio, in the newspapers and even stump-speak if need be and get the people to stop it. You didn't hesitate to do this when you were asking us to put you in the Governor's chair.

Milwaukee Journal

Buried down in the declaration of the 25 "nonaligned" nations which attended the Belgrade conference is this paragraph:

"The participating countries believe that the right of Cuba as that of any other nation to freely choose their political and social systems in accordance with their own conditions, needs and possibilities should be respected."

The free world will approve of that. Now, when is Fidel Castro going to hold a free election to let his people choose their political and social system?

error's chair. I am or was proud of this state. Proud, when talking to an out-of-stater to tell him about this great state and its people. But now all that will be shattered. Then I will be ashamed to say I'm from this state.

So Mr. Governor, I ask you and the people of Georgia to stand up and be counted to stop this ungodly thing.

A GEORGIA CITIZEN.

Atlanta—I would like to answer some of the critics of "Georgia justice" in the case of Preston Cobb, 15-year-old Negro boy, who was convicted and sentenced to die for the murder of Frank Coleman Dumas Sr., 70-year-old farmer.

For those who base their plea for commutation on religious grounds I would suggest they read Exodus, 21st chapter, 12th verse: "He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall he surely be put to death." According to this Bible verse, God Himself decreed the death penalty for murderers, without any waiver thereof because of extenuating circumstances.

For those who base their plea on humanitarian reasons, I would like to ask them, would they consider it a humanitarian act if some teen-ager shot them in the back and killed them while they were innocently watching a television show in their own living rooms?

For those who base their pleas on unfavorable world opinion if this death sentence is carried out, I would say the Communists all over the world will take advantage of it to agitate the race issue. We know that the Communists will not hesitate to commit mass murder at any time to further their aims as is so plainly shown in East Berlin right now, where several refugees have been killed in trying to escape to freedom. Must we in Georgia suspend justice because of false propaganda circulated by this blood-thirsty outfit?

Finally, most all Georgians, living in the so called Bible belt, have been reared in a religious environment, and actually have conscience, believe it or not, regardless of such propaganda to the contrary. I do not believe that 12 average Georgians from any part of the state could be found who would unanimously condemn a man to death for any reason other than proven guilt, regardless of his race or color. Georgians, like most other people, have regards for their own souls, and do not wish to be found wanting on the judgment day.

ARCHIE AUSTIN.

Athens—This letter concerns the 15-year-old Negro boy convicted of the murder of a white man.

Murder is a crime that, if it cannot be prevented, deserves punishment. But a child of that age. . . does not come under the head of criminal.

It would therefore, it seems to me, be merciful and civilized to put this boy where he can be taught and educated in both secular and religious tenets—this by someone who cares enough to teach him to pray. Then give him work to do and gradual freedom to learn to trust himself and to be trusted.

I. D. HARRISON.

Totalitarian Rule Is Not the Answer

The speech delivered at Harvard by Sterling McMurrin, U.S. commissioner of education, which prompted my comment in late August and produced an angry denial from the Department of HEW, is worthy of careful study. In the first paragraph, McMurrin said: (emphasis mine)

"An examination of the present predicament of our nation reveals two basic and related propositions on government that deserve our most serious consideration. The first of these, that in a sense expresses the very meaning of democracy, is the assumption that there is an inevitable coincidence of the good of the individual with the good of the society taken in its totality."

"It is the common belief that a course of action that genuinely ministers to the dignity and intrinsic value of the individual and cultivates his talents and capabilities and encourages his commitment to high purpose must of necessity build into the social structure and the state a strength that will guarantee their full integrity and their lasting power in the presence even of great adversity."

"But this is an assumption that has never been fully tested by our nation or by any other nation, for in circumstances that have seriously and fundamentally challenged the strength of the democracies, as in the event of war, they have resorted to various forms of regimentation that have at certain points suspended the principles and practices normative for a democratic society."

There is an assumption, Mr. McMurrin, of the inevitable coincidence of the good of the individual with the good of the society where the good of the individual and its preservation and recognition is the first goal of that society. To my mind, what Mr. McMurrin is attempting to say is this: Confronted with the threat of communism, we must adopt some of the regimentation of the totalitarian state if we are to successfully compete. And later on in his speech he declares his confidence in the superiority of the regimented society, for he says: "It is now entirely clear to us that whatever may be the quality of individual life in a totalitarian society, a vast potential of national power is provided by the monolithic structure of its purposes and institutions. We must assess our own policies and actions in terms of that power."

McMurrin definitely suggests that a totalitarian society, by regimenting its people, will produce a more powerful nation. This is a dangerous and false assumption.

Power for what? Have we defied efficiency, the inhuman, merciless efficiency worshipped by the totalitarians? Is not our national goal to provide a governmental structure which will protect and enhance and reward the individual? Almighty God intended man to be free, and this republic was designed to help men to achieve a reconciliation with God's intended purpose.

Georgia Has Absurd Voting Laws

Instead of encouraging citizens to register and vote, Georgia's election laws in too many instances have the opposite effect. Topping the list, of course, is the county unit system which virtually disfranchises hundreds of thousands of voters.

Next in line is the absurd requirement that halts voter registration six months before a primary or election is to be held. This simply doesn't make sense. The most heated campaigning is being waged during the final months, yet people who had watched the preliminary as disinterested bystanders are denied the right to register after candidates have built up their interest and are heading for the home stretch.

This was a factor in Georgia's ranking third from the bottom in the percentage of residents of voting age who cast ballots in last year's presidential election. According to figures compiled by The American Heritage Foundation,

Eddie BarkerShe Would Repeat One Line:
'Billy Never Was a Bad Boy'

I haven't seen Effie Ferguson. But I must. I only read where the frail, fading woman bent her head into her hands on the defendant's table as Judge W. A. Foster Jr. explained that her son, Billy, could have friends and relatives come see him die in the electric chair at Reidsville. "May God," the judge intoned, "have mercy on your soul."

This was the second time Billy Homer Ferguson had heard these words.

They came because twice he has been convicted of the July 17, 1958, slaying of Douglasville TV repairman Luke Brown.

"May God have mercy on your soul."

It is not the thin face of Bill Ferguson which haunts me. It is the thin face of the mother.

And those eyes which will mirror more misery the moment after the mother sees the son walk away from her for the last time.

"It is a hard thing to think on."

That is what Effie Ferguson had said of the electrocution.

I think she had felt that there would be one.

And so had I.

Not that the willful woman has not fought; she has. And so did court-appointed attorney Bud Asher; he who bearded the lions in their Douglasville dens.

But for months now, ever since a U.S. Supreme Court decision demanded a retrial for Ferguson, the miserable mother has not had much heart in her hopes.

She would come, say she was sorry to be a bother, but she had to talk to someone. It would take a tougher man than I to turn her away. She would sit, swinging a nervous foot, rubbing a hand injured by operation, and without trying you could see right into her soul.

The world had taken her, beat her, and left her with loneliness. But hard work helped, and she did for a family of five with the help of a husband.

All the time she would repeat the one line, "Billy never was a bad boy."

She would tell how, as a boy, he was kinder than all the rest. How he was thoughtful. How proud he was of the job he got in Douglas County, but how it was that trouble stalked him and found the finish in Luke Brown's repair shop.

She said sometime she wished it were over, one way or the other.

The judge said family and friends.

That might mean only Effie Ferguson and me.

Robert V. OzmentActivated Concern
Can Bring Results

Everybody, who is sensitive to current dangers, seems to be concerned about the problems we face on the international, national and personal level. No person would deny the fact that we have an over-supply of problems in each area. I need not remind you that there are different levels of concern. It is not enough to be concerned. Let me suggest three levels of concern.

First, there are concerns that remain unexpressed. Most of us have problems that we do not talk about. We bury some of our concerns in the subconscious mind. Some of these concerns are real and others are products of the mind.

Second, there are concerns that are verbally expressed. Most of us have problems that we do not talk about. We bury some of our concerns in the subconscious mind. Some of these concerns also are verbally expressed. Many people have become proficient in the art of pointing out the problems that are so obvious. It doesn't take a thinking man to conclude that the world is in an awful mess. We need someone to help lead us back to the land of peace, purpose and good will.

A couple sat in my office a few weeks ago. They were ready to stand aside and watch the ship of matrimony sink to the bottom of the sea of broken dreams. It would have been naive, if not stupid, for me to have said, "your marriage is shaky." They knew this; what they wanted to know is how to stop up the leaky holes in the ship of marriage.

The third level of concern is what I like to call activated concern. Behind this concern there is a compelling force that will not let one rest until he has made some effort to right the wrong.

History forgets those who have only the art of criticism. It has a way of remembering those who offer some solution to the problems of the world. On the golden pages of history we find written in silver ink the names of many illustrious people who have felt a compelling force to act on their concerns. I suspect God feels like saying to many of us, "Don't just stand there, do something."

Luther felt that the church of which he was a priest was drifting out of the stream of God's will. There was a restlessness within him that would not permit him to be silent.

Fletcher KnebelPotomac Fever

Kennedy vetoes a postal pay raise. And what would you do if the mailman brought you a stack of letters every day, blaming you for everything from Cuba to crab grass?

The trouble with education, it's turning out so many people who can't read, that it's hard to find enough people who can't write to fill the demand.

Fighting Nixon in the California governor's race, Goodie Knight says a banker asked him to withdraw. Strange banker. Usually the only thing a banker wants out of you is another deposit.

Celestine SibleyA Stroll With a Young Man
Would Be the Same Anywhere

Several months ago John Crosby, the New York columnist, took up the subject of how Americans "love being loathed." This was apropos of a book by Nancy Mitford, the bright and entertaining Englishwoman who began cutting a swath as anti-American back before everybody else started getting into the act. Or, as Mr. Crosby put it, "the good old, long-gone days when the rest of the globe thought quite well of us."

Now, according to Mr. Crosby, Miss Mitford is in the frightfully unchic position of being a member of the masses.

"Everyone loathes Americans now," he remarked. "White people. Black people. Brown people. Socialists. Eastern demagogues. South American dictators. Colonel Blimp. Everyone. . . To loathe Americans properly, one finds oneself rubbing elbows with some perfectly awful people Miss Mitford wouldn't have in the livingroom. Loathing Americans has got too popular to be quite fashionable."

To show that we like being hated even more than we like being loved Mr. Crosby predicted that we would all rush out in great numbers and buy Miss Mitford's latest book,

"Don't Tell Alfred." We probably will, too.

Only as much as I've admired Miss Mitford's literary style in the past, I believe I'm going to be able to restrain myself from reading this newest book. To tell you the truth I'm getting a little weary of being bad-mouthed.

We have our faults as a nation, no doubt, and it doesn't hurt us to be slapped down for our pushiness and our bad manners when they crop out in far corners of the world. But it's getting a bit thick when even the young exchange students who are guests in our country start playing the good old lemon squeeze game, sounding off in the public prints about that great bug-boo, Conformity, and how all our young people ape one another in appearance and action.

That's in one breath and in the next breath they complain that Southern English is so different from British English that they are having difficulty understanding it.

I searched the photographs of three young ladies who were recently having a say about the conformity of American youth and as far as I could make out they were wearing the same kind of clothes and the same raggedy, unkempt hair-dos that have afflicted girls all over the globe since that non-American actress, Brigitte Bardot, appeared on the scene. They spoke of the sameness of dating and studying and dressing among our girls and I may be terribly unimaginative but I can't think of ways of injecting much variety into these areas of activity. Taking a walk on an autumn afternoon with a young man used to strike me as pretty exciting fare in itself, subject to all sorts of delicious variety. I would have assumed it was the same in France, Germany or Russia.

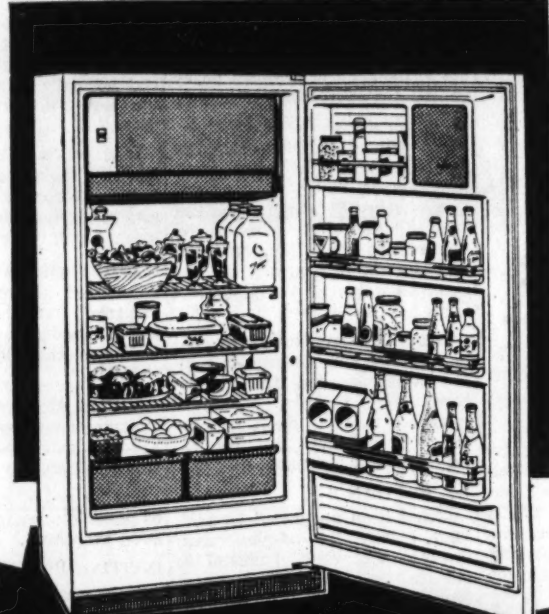

Studying, like fishing or ditch digging, is an individual pursuit with admittedly ancient and accepted rules. How do you conform your study habits, for goodness' sake? Hang by your heels from a chandelier?

Of course, we are constantly finding fault with ourselves, which should be a healthy thing but it's getting pretty wearisome, too. That Johns Hopkins philosopher who said American adults are nuts about being "childishly cute," refuse to admit our ages, delight in childhood entertainment and "artificial youthfulness" may have made a study of the subject in other lands but I doubt it.

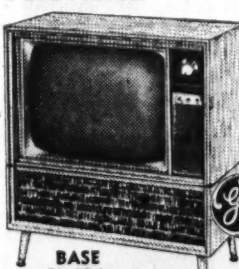

I believe he would find the sale of hair dye pretty brisk in France, for instance, and weren't the Germans pioneers in the art of face-lifting? As for childish entertainment, who's to say that football and baseball are more juvenile than cricket and rugby or horse racing?

Envoy Talks On Berlin Seen to him a "step backward" from the three earlier talks between Gromyko and Rusk in New York.

The German ambassador said the Russians had "not yet provided any practical basis for meaningful negotiations." Asked whether he perceived any "softening" in the Soviet stand, he replied:

"No. The disturbing thing is that the end of these talks (with the President) were more negative than those at the beginning (with Secretary Rusk)."

AGAINST COMPROMISE

These differences of interpretation seemed to betray differences of approach that are known to exist among the Western powers.

Even before sanctioning the conversations with Gromyko, France and West Germany had insisted that it was up to Moscow to prove its good faith and to propose a way out of crisis entirely of the Communists' making. Paris and Bonn feel that any offer of compromise by the West will be mistaken for weakness.

Washington and London, on the other hand, appear to feel duty-bound to seek an honorable settlement before events drift to the point where the Allies have agreed to use force in defense of West Berlin.

Both Kennedy and Rusk tried to make plain to Gromyko the West's determination not to be pushed out of Berlin, and they are said to believe that Moscow has now come to appreciate this determination.

MISS HEART OF ISSUE

But sources here have not revealed any other specifically useful result of the talks with Gromyko—from the Western point of view.

The Soviet diplomat did offer to defer the Soviet year-end deadline for a German settlement and indicated that Moscow would accept something less than full diplomatic recognition of East Germany. Presumably these indications caused some of the early optimism here, but the offers clearly did not yet go to the heart of the East-West dispute.

Moscow has threatened to sign a peace treaty with East Germany in the near future which, it claims, would end the Western occupation rights in Berlin and make continued access to West Berlin contingent on negotiations with the East German Communists.

POSITIONS CLASH

Gromyko refused to reveal to Kennedy what action Moscow might take to block Western access to Berlin once this peace treaty is signed.

The Soviet diplomat only repeated the Soviet claim that the freedom of West Berlin and access to it would be wholly "guaranteed" if the Western powers showed "respect" for East German sovereignty—and especially if they added their signatures to the proposed peace treaty.

The Western powers maintain, however, that the Soviet Union is pledged to a free and united Germany, and they have therefore refused to recognize the East German regime as either legal or representative.

ly unprepared for some questions about Germany and Berlin which were currently under discussion abroad. Though he did not elaborate, his statement was seen as an implication that the country should brace itself for a number of sacrifices.

What nature these sacrifices will have is still a matter of conjecture even among government officials.

NO SURRENDER

For the moment they are satisfied that the West apparently:

1. Does not contemplate to surrender its rights in Berlin.

2. Does not contemplate de facto recognition of the Communist East German regime.

3. Does not contemplate offering as a concession a military disengagement in Europe going hand in hand with a "denuclearizing" of the West German armed forces.

Brandt announced that he would prepare a report on his talks with American officials for the "acting government" of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and the chairman of the parties represented in Parliament.

Adenauer was reported Sunday

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed

New York, N.Y. (Special)—A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast. Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma—the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This new formula is so safe that it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN®.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma-relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs. The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep. Get BRONITIN—available at all drug stores without prescription.

Humphrey Prods Bonn On Policies

By DAVID BINDER
(Copyright 1961 By The New York Times Co.)

BERLIN — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said here Sunday that the purpose of his visit to Bonn last week was to persuade the West German government that it must participate more actively in the formulation of Western policy on the German problem and on Berlin.

The Minnesota Democrat flew to Berlin Sunday for consultations with Mayor Willy Brandt and Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President John F. Kennedy's personal representative here. Humphrey will also tour the divided city and the Communist border barricades. It is his fourth visit here.

In an interview Humphrey said he had met with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Ludwig Erhard, West German economics minister, to urge them to take full responsibility for Western policy toward Germany.

ON HIS OWN

"I did it on my own," he said. "But I hope the administration supports this view. I intend to talk to the President about it when I get back."

Humphrey, who is a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said he had told the Chancellor and Dr. Erhard that the West German government must do three things to achieve a more effective Western policy.

"I told them they must join in consultations and participate actively in the decision-making on Germany and that they must then acknowledge their role in making the policy," he said.

"I told them it was essential that they publicly take their share of responsibility for the policy and not just leave it to the United States."

ADENAUER IMPRESSED

The senator said his remarks had elicited a "friendly reception" from Adenauer and Erhard.

In the past the West German government has sought to assign to the U.S. ultimate responsibility for the achievement of German reunification and settlement of the Berlin problem. Humphrey remarked that he had encountered expressions of this attitude during his talks in Bonn.

Two other U.S. senators were active in Berlin Sunday, despite the gray, rainy weather.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., was winding up his five-day stay in the city with a plan to drive down the autobahn through Communist East Germany to West Germany Monday. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., arrived for a quick tour of East and West Berlin and for talks with Clay and Brandt.

At a news conference before his departure Sunday night, Javits stressed the Republican Party's "solidarity" with Kennedy on the Berlin issue.

He said that the Republicans in Congress were giving Kennedy "a remarkable degree of support" on his Berlin policy and that he believed the United States was "willing to run whatever risk is required" in backing Western rights here, "knowing that the risk of war is involved."

Queen was stationed in Tokyo from 1955 until his assignment to Australia last November. The second secretary's post is concerned with administrative and house-keeping matters.

The State Department in Washington said Queen was born in Kentucky, became coordinator of inter-American affairs for the State Department in 1942, was a Navy ensign 1943 to 1945 and attended George Washington University 1947-50.

Airport Will Close 12 Hours

Maneuvers Cause
Shutdown Saturday

finds the Atlanta airport "one of the busiest in the world." There are normally 524 scheduled flights in and out of Atlanta, with an average 7,000 passengers per day accommodated here.

Eastern Air Lines District Sales Manager E. S. Byrd said a total of 111 Eastern flights—in and out—will be affected here by the shut-down. Delta reported 95 flights will be canceled by the operation. Other airlines operating in and out of the Atlanta airport reported as follows: Southern, 61 flights affected; United, 27; Northwest and Trans World, four each.

Delta reported some typical re-scheduling. Its jet flight from Atlanta to the West Coast, normally leaving the airport at 9 a.m., will leave Saturday at 6:15 a.m. to permit passengers to reach their destinations before shut-downs in other time zones. A jet flight to New York, normally leaving Atlanta at 11:55 a.m., will take off here at 9:55 a.m., and a jet flight to Miami, ordinarily leaving Atlanta at 10:30 a.m., has been re-scheduled to leave at 9:56 a.m.

DUKE FLYING IN

Duke University's football team will be flown into Atlanta for their game with Georgia Tech by Delta—but plans to take the train back to their campus because of the 12-hour delay in plane flights.

"Air travel will be affected for considerably more than 12 hours," an Atlanta airport official pointed out, "because flights that do not end normally before the hour of the test will have to be canceled."

Last year's "Sky Shield" was for only six hours, half the time of the forthcoming shut-down, and was at night, so that considerably fewer flights were affected.

Airport officials said that they anticipated "a minimum of inconvenience" from the mass grounding and said advance notices and airline re-schedulings "helped the situation."

Eastern Air Lines will take advantage of the shut-down to stage a public exhibition of one of its DC8 jets Saturday.

The jet and other planes will be on public display from 1 to 5 p.m., Byrd announced.

INVITING PUBLIC

"With part of our fleet parked on the ramp at the Atlanta airport," he said, "Eastern is inviting the public to take the opportunity to go through its big 122-passenger jet and see some of the airline's other aircraft, including the prop-jet Super Electric."

"Students, Boy Scouts, and other groups are invited to take advantage of our four-hour 'open house.'"

Eastern employees will be on hand to act as guides and answer questions. Complimentary soft drinks will be served by an Atlanta bottling company.

The NORAD war games will cost airlines here and over the nation huge sums in air fares. But airline spokesmen and Atlanta Airport Manager Jack Gray saluted the forthcoming operation as "vital to our defense" and chorused:

"It's a privilege to cooperate in something so important to our nation's future."

Neutralist Is Chosen by Laos Princes

chief aides continued discussions, neither day's meeting yielding much apparent progress.

Although there was no mention of it by any of the parties, the agreement on presenting Souvanna Phouma's name to the king represented the first important compromise by both right and left wings since the peace talks began after a cease fire in the Laotian civil war last May.

Until Sunday the neutralists and the pro-Communists had insisted that Souvanna Phouma be named premier but not until there was full agreement by all three parties on the apportionment of seats in the 16-member cabinet.

The right wing had insisted that no one man be chosen premier but that instead a list of names be submitted to the king for his choice. In addition, the Vientiane regime demanded that the choosing of the cabinet be left to the man so designated by the king.

Thus in agreeing to submit only the name of Souvanna Phouma but before cabinet seats were apportioned and filled, both right and left gave up ground.

$90 Billion U.S. Budget Is Predicted

C of C Group Cites Congress Spending

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A leading business organization Sunday called the recently adjourned Congress the biggest spender in peacetime history and predicted its actions would lead to a $90 billion budget next year.

The Council of State Chambers of Commerce dismissed as token or bookkeeping reductions many of what it called the "apparent reductions" made by Congress this year in President Kennedy's money requests. It noted that the administration expects a $5.3 billion deficit this year.

BALANCE NOT IMPERATIVE

At the same time, the AFL-CIO's chief economist, Stanley Rutenberg, said he believed there was general agreement now that the federal budget does not have to be balanced every year. If there is high employment and production, he said, the budget will balance out over the years.

"I'm not worried about temporary budget deficits if we're confronted with large scale unemployment and large scale misuse or under utilization of plant capacity," he said on an AFL-CIO sponsored radio program (Mutual).

The State Chambers of Commerce study of the first session of the Democratic-controlled 87th Congress was prepared for 30 member state organizations by the council's research director, Eugene F. Rinta.

$7 BILLION INCREASE

He said the record of budget actions by Congress is not likely to cause a net change of more than a few hundred million dollars in the $87.7 billion planned by the administration for the current fiscal year.

"Its effect will not only be a $7 billion increase in expenditures over the original (Eisenhower) budget for 1962, but also a further rise to at least $90 billion in 1963," he said.

Comparing the budget records of the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations in their first years in office, he said the Eisenhower administration cut Truman spending proposals by $10 billion and the Kennedy administration raised Eisenhower spending plans by $9 billion.

Ramspeck Is Retiring From EAL

Former Fifth District Congressman Robert Ramspeck is retiring as vice president and director of federal activities for Eastern Air Lines in Washington, D.C.

Lyle S. Garlock, former assistant secretary of the Air Force, will succeed Ramspeck when he retires Oct. 16, Malcolm A. MacIntyre, Eastern president announced. Ramspeck has held the Washington post since 1953. He will remain as a consultant to Eastern.

A native of Decatur, Ramspeck received his law degree from Atlanta Law School and served in the Georgia legislature before going to Congress as Fifth District representative from 1929 to 1945. He served as Chairman of the U.S. Civil Service Commission under President Harry S. Truman.

Garlock, who recently was named air power's "Man of the Year" by the Air Force Association, was first appointed assistant secretary by President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and was reappointed by President John F. Kennedy. He resigned last month after 27 years government service.

Rome School Sets Classes For Parents

Constitution State News Service
ROME, Ga.—Night classes will be held Monday at the West Rome High School, but it will be the parents who will attend.

In an effort to achieve better understanding between parents, students and teachers, the "back to school" program is being started at West Rome with Monday night sessions the first in a series.

Following a brief welcoming speech from Principal Dick McThee, each parent will then go through a version of his child's school day.

"Classes" will be conducted on a 10-minute per class basis. During these periods teachers will outline the objectives of each course and will discuss material used, methods of grading and other procedures. Members of the student council will serve as guides to escort the parents from class to class. Name tags, refreshments and a student nursery in the elementary wing will be provided by members of the Chieftain's Club.

Bankers Boost Dixie in West

By FRANK WELLS

About 250 Southeastern bankers and their wives left Atlanta Sunday night, bound for a Southeast selling mission at the American Bankers' Association meeting in San Francisco.

Consensus of the bankers was that they would do their best to sell the Southeast as an economic frontier of the country.

10 Killed On Georgia Highways

D. H. Crawford said the two were dead when the officers arrived on the scene.

First to die after the grim count began at 6 p.m. Friday was Georgia May Hinton, 30-year-old Negro pedestrian. The patrol said she was struck by a hit-and-run driver in Woodbury.

Other traffic deaths included a passenger in a car driven by a one-armed driver just west of Hawkinsville. Marion Earl Garner, 21, of Valdosta was riding in the car when it ran a stop sign at Georgia routes 27 and 257.

Police said the car skidded across the road. Two others in the car were injured.

A 12-year-old girl was killed when the car in which she was riding struck another car south of Blakely on Cedar Springs Road. Peggy Dickey of Grady, Ala., died 12 hours after the Saturday morning crash. Police reported the car ran a stop sign and struck an oncoming vehicle.

Charles A. Lewis died in a rear end collision early Sunday about one mile east of Quitman on Rte. 84. Lewis, 34, from Greenville, Fla., was driving the car, the patrol reported.

Six miles south of Thomson Charlie Lee Change, 32-year-old Negro, died when his car turned over several times on a curve early Sunday.

Bartow Wilson Cowart, 23, Valdosta, died when he lost control of his car about 10 miles from Moultrie Saturday. Police reported that his car overturned and that he was thrown out of it.

An out-of-state victim was Jack Parker, 26, College Park. He was killed early Sunday when a car struck a power pole and plunged down an embankment about 15 miles south of Jasper, Tenn.

"We are going west and tell the bankers 'Go East,' said Isaac M. Aiken of the American National Bank of Brunswick. "Of course, we can specify Southeast just as easy."

10,000 EXPECTED

Aiken said the association meeting would draw about 10,000 bankers from all over the country.

Tom N. Humphress, executive vice president of the Tallahassee (Fla.) Bank and Trust Co., said he was particularly interested in what the big city bankers had to say about the possibility of war.

"But I'll be in there pitching for the Southeast—Florida in particular," he said. "We have the most potential in this region of any other section of the country. We've got the space, the climate and the people."

PUSHES CHICKEN

Humphress said that "we country boys have to sort of listen to the big city bankers, but we can get in a plug now and then."

Edwin O. McFather, president of the Bank of Canton, Ga., said he would promote the Southeast as much as possible. "We've got to get them to eat more chicken, too," he said. Canton is county seat of Cherokee County, one of Georgia's biggest chicken producing counties.

Frank B. Holding, of the First Citizens Bank and Trust Co., of Smithfield, N. C., said, "I'll take every opportunity to promote industry moving to the Southeast—North Carolina, especially, as the best state. I expect I'll get a lot of competition from Georgia men on that, but I'll be promoting my state in California and anywhere in between here and there that I can."

20-CAR SPECIAL

The bankers traveled on a 20-car train, made up by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. There are two diners and two lounge cars on the train.

The trip west will go via Grand Canyon, Las Vegas, and Sequoia National Park. The bankers will attend the convention in San Francisco from Oct. 15 to 18.

On the return trip they will visit Feather River Canyon, Salt Lake City, Royal Gorge and the Flying W Ranch in Colorado. Arrival time in Atlanta is Oct. 22. Citizens and Southern National Bank in Atlanta handled travel arrangements.

Non-Profit Unit Asked to Own Satellite Communication Net

By JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON — A special industry committee is expected to recommend to the government this week the creation of a non-profit corporation to own and operate a satellite communications system.

The recommendation will serve as the focal point for a developing controversy within the executive branch and Congress over who should control and reap the benefits of the first profitable outgrowth of the new satellite technology.

The industry committee, composed of representatives of 10 U.S. companies engaged in international communications, was organized by the Federal Communications Commission last July to work out the basis for a "joint venture" to own and operate a commercial satellite communications system. The committee was given a deadline of next Friday to submit its report.

In proposing that the ownership be limited to the international communications companies, the FCC asked the committee to come up with an organization for the joint venture as well as estimates of how much capital each company would be willing to contribute to development and establishment of the satellite system.

While final approval has not yet been given to the report, the majority of the committee was reliably reported to favor formation of a non-profit corporation which would finance and operate the satellite part of the communications system.

As proposed in a draft report, the ground stations, which represent the major cost of the overall system, would be owned and operated by the individual companies, each of whom would have equitable access to the satellites for transoceanic relay of their messages.

The crucial issue, and one which was understood still to be undecided by the committee, is how much each company would contribute to the "nonprofit corporation" and the basis used for determining contributions.

It is the proposed share of ownership which may well determine whether the administration and Congress will accept the industry proposal for a nonprofit corporation. As one key administration official put it:

"It is not the profits which worry us, since these would be regulated anyway by the government, but whether any one company will be in a position to control or dominate the corporation."

Behind this statement was a concern, felt particularly in the Justice department, White House and some "antitrust" committees of Congress, that American Telephone and Telegraph Co., as the giant among the communications companies, might emerge as the dominant partner in any "joint venture."

The example, if contributions were based on potential use of the system, as has been proposed in the past by AT&T, the telephone company would have an 80 to 90 per cent financial interest in the system.

Officially, the Kennedy administration has come out in favor of private ownership and operation of the U.S. portion of a communications satellite system.

Traffic Study to Close North Ave. 4-Lane Entry

A State Highway Department traffic study will close the North Avenue expressway entrance for north-bound traffic from 4 to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday of this week and next week.

The study, which is being conducted by Georgia Tech engineers and which began last spring, will eventually show the best traffic routing onto the expressway and surface streets, Dr. Donald Covault, engineer in charge of the experiments, said.

Last April and May ramps at 14th and 10th streets and North Avenue were closed during afternoon rush hours at separate times. "By changing the spacing between ramps we can determine through total travel times what combination is best for all," Dr. Covault said.

Results of last spring's closings are being evaluated.

Hear, But Don't Understand?

Howard Hurst, owner of Pittman & Hurst, 376 Peachtree St., N.E., has announced that the Zenith Radio Corporation has just introduced the smallest Zenith hearing aid ever, weighing only 1/2 of an ounce, complete with battery. This truly inconspicuous model, the new Signet, is specifically for those who hear but don't understand. Without sacrificing acoustical performance and allowing you to use the telephone naturally at ear level, sounds are amplified more faithfully, are far more perfectly balanced. Now it is possible to "understand what you hear."

This Zenith "Living Sound" all-transistor quality hearing aid is manufactured by Zenith Radio Corporation. Zenith is a name in the hearing aid industry that you can turn to with confidence, a name backed by 42 years of research and development by Zenith sound engineers, that has brought world famous Zenith Radio and TV to millions. There is never a compromise with Zenith Quality.

Additional information and details on this transistorized hearing aid may be obtained by writing to Pittman & Hurst, Inc., 376 Peachtree St., N.E., Atlanta, or call JA. 4-7958 or BU. 4-3578.

"Under a dozen or more aliases, the man who called himself, 'Count DeVille' had obtained hundreds of thousands of dollars operating just inside the law. Most of it was spent defending himself and he died penniless in his cell."—Detective magazine quote.

Forever it has been the fate... Of man to "labor and to wait"... To wait and hope his luck will turn... That, in the future, he may earn... Enough to meet his growing needs... Yet, in some way he succeeds... His needs increase and once again... His work and waiting seem in vain.

Though some will take it in their stride... Some others are not satisfied... They need more money, double-quick... And cunningly devise some trick... Or scheme that can't be called a crime... But while they're working overtime... To put their crooked project through... "The law" is busy working, too.

As said before, it is the fate... Of man to labor and to wait... But waiting for the ax to fall... Is just about the worst of all... And waiting for the trial date... Decreases, at a rapid rate... Most all of his ill-gotten gains... And while some prison entertains... Him as a most unwelcome guest... The lawyers get all of the rest... "Crime doesn't pay?" Oh, yes it does... His lawyer's richer than he was.

GOREN on BRIDGE

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—As South you hold:
10 5 ♠ A K 9 6 3 ♦ A 7 5 ♣ J 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 NT Pass 3 ♥ Pass
3 NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. With this evenly balanced hand, prospects for slam are not bright, even if partner has a maximum. Your hand is worth 13 points valued at hearts and partner has a maximum of 18 points in high cards. Assuming he has a distributional point in addition, the play for slam should still be indifferent.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
Q 8 5 3 ♥ A K 8 7 ♦ 6 ♣ K Q 5 4
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♦ Double Pass 1 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. This hand is not quite strong enough for a double raise in view of the fact that partner was forced to bid. A double raise in this situation should be based on 19 points.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
7 5 ♥ K Q J 9 8 ♦ A 6 ♣ A K 9 8
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—With this strong hand, a jump bid of some kind is indicated, and our choice is three hearts. It is not quite strong enough to make an absolute force to game and, therefore, we veto a bid of three clubs.

Q. 4—You are South, vulnerable, and you hold:
A K 6 ♥ 10 9 4 ♦ A K 9 8 2 ♣ K J 5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 3 ♦ Pass 3 ♥ ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. This is to enable partner to contract for three no trump if he has a heart stopper. Do not fall into the error of bidding four diamonds, for a contract of 11 tricks might be out of reach.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
A A J 10 8 4 ♥ 10 6 5 4 2 ♦ 6 3 ♣ 9
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. In this case, nothing is to be gained by showing the anemic five-card heart suit and it might easily delude partner into taking more aggressive action than is warranted.

Q. 6—Partner opens with one club and you hold:
7 4 2 ♥ 8 5 3 ♦ 9 7 4 3 2 ♣ K 6
What is your response?

A.—While it is our practice to stretch a point to keep alive an opening bid of one club, we do not feel justified in such action in this particular hand with only one king and no distributional advantages. A pass is, therefore, clearly indicated. We occasionally keep the bidding open with five points, but not with four.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
A A J 10 4 ♥ A J ♦ Q J 10 5 ♣ K J 6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—A rebid of one spade is our clear choice. The hand contains only 17 points in high cards and is, therefore, two points short of the requirements for a jump to two no trump. You must, therefore, bide your time with a bid of one spade, and hope to get another chance. On hands of this type, we find that it is superior strategy to open with one no trump in the first place.

Summer Vandals Cost Schools Much

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — The loss of 1,000 window panes has given city school officials a $10,000 pain. School Supt. Bennie Carmichael said vandals knocked out the panes in vacant school buildings during summer vacation.

Carmichael noted that the more than $10,000 it will cost to replace the windows and repair other damage is enough to build a new classroom.

A Free-Wheeling Ford

CINCINNATI—All great athletes have a knack of relaxing under intense pressure and no one is more at ease before a vital assignment than Whitey Ford, the premier pitcher of the Yankees.

Before taking the mound at Crosley Field Sunday to usher Cincinnati to the brink of extinction, break Babe Ruth's record of consecutive World Series scoreless innings and extend his own victory mark to eight, Ford sat in the dugout and talked about golf.

Outlar

"No, I don't think Mickey Mantle could play pro golf," Ford said. "He gets too red-necked. You think that Tommy Bolt is bad? You ought to see Mantle. He breaks up about 20 clubs a year."

Talking about Ford's upcoming shot at Ruth's pitching mark prompted someone to ask Whitey how many home runs he has hit.

"Well, I hit one at the stadium off Vic Raschi," Ford answered. "You mean career? Oh, that's easy. I also hit one in Detroit. Two."

Some three hours later the Yankees had whacked the dazed Reds, 7-0, and now all they need is one more victory to put the official stamp on what will be their 19th world title.

Ford mowed down Cincinnati on three hits for five innings to stretch his scoreless string to 32, surpassing Ruth's 29½ mark which had survived since 1918.

—Whitey Knocked Himself Out on One Pitch

Ford finally knocked himself out of the box on one pitch, a feat Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were unable to achieve in four games. In the fourth inning, Whitey took a falling swing at a Jim Brosnan serve and the ball rammed his right toe. He had twisted his right ankle in the fourth, stumbling on a small hole on the mound, so Manager Ralph Houk derided Ford after Elio Chacon singled to launch the sixth.

Now, in the Yankee clubhouse, Ford took up where he was interrupted to dispose of the Reds. Displaying the ball that Chacon had hit to ground out in the third to better the Ruth mark, Ford wondered out loud how much that man in California would pay for this prize. He was, of course, referring to the restaurant man who had offered a kid $5,000 to present the ball Maris tagged for his 61st homer.

"Since you've bettered Ruth's pitching record, how about the hitting," a reporter asked Ford.

"Wally Moses is going to work on my hitting as soon as we get to Florida next spring. I'm going after the hitting record."

"How did I feel when Chacon grounded out to break the record? Oh, I knew it was a record," said Ford, "but I didn't think much about it at the time for we didn't have any runs."

"It's a record that you don't hear mentioned much," Ford added, "about the only time naturally is at the World Series. I'm proud of it, but not over..."

"You mean overwhelmed?" injected a writer.

"Just say I'm proud of it," said Ford. "I'm going to put the ball in a drawer with a couple of others I saved when I pitched two straight one-hitters."

"Do you think," inquired a super optimist, "that you'll be able to start the seventh game?"

"Sure, I'll be all right," replied Ford, suppressing a smile.

—Reds Have One More Tomorrow

Unless Cincinnati emerges from its prolonged batting coma, there will be no tomorrow for Fred Hutchinson's startled men after tomorrow.

After scoring six runs with assistance of the Yankees in the second game, the Reds scored only two in the next two games. In fact, Cincinnati's deepest penetration Sunday was second base, a site touched by only three Reds.

Jim Coates, who finished up what Ford started by limiting the Reds to one hit in four rounds, said Cincinnati reminded him very much of Pittsburgh. Unfortunately for Red boosters, however, they do not get the mileage out of their hits that the Bucs did.

"My only complaint in the Series is that we haven't hit," said downcast Manager Fred Hutchinson. "We've made few mistakes, we've had good pitching, and our defense has been all right, but you can't win without hitting."

"Do you think that getting the team up will be tough psychologically?" inquired a man.

"Well, sure," answered Hutchinson. "They know that they have to do it tomorrow. That's all there is to it."

The turning point in the fourth game occurred, of course, when the Yankees scored their first run in the fourth.

"That talk to (Roger) Maris in the fourth and the walk to Ford in the fifth hurt O'Toole," said Hutchinson. "Both runners scored, but they didn't hit O'Toole hard."

Hutchinson picked up the desk telephone and dialed a number. No one answered. It seems that Hutch is on the wrong end of the line.

However, cautious Ralph Houk isn't making any claim to the championship. "Sure we're in a better position now," Houk conceded, "but that fourth game is the hardest to win. I remember a Milwaukee club leading, 3-1, in the Series which never won the fourth game."

Houk was referring to the Milwaukee Braves of 1958, who lost to the Yanks after jumping out front.

"No one has mentioned him, but I think you have to give Jim Coates credit for the way he finished up today," Houk volunteered. "He was terrific. I didn't think Ford was as sharp today as he was in the first game in New York."

A man asked if Houk would have removed Ford if he had wanted to remain in the game after injuring his toe. "Any time Ford wants to pitch I am not going to quarrel with him," said Houk.

And that seems logical, for Sunday afternoon Whitey Ford stamped his name in the book as the greatest World Series pitcher on record. In this Series, however, the Reds are making all the pitchers look great.

Upsetting Kentucky, Bullish Bengals Rise Up

By JACK WILLIAMS

Football history shows that it takes an all-American to beat Auburn at Cliff Hare Stadium, and the Kentucky Wildcats thank their lucky stars they have one.

His name is Tom Hutchinson and Saturday he put the skids to the Tigers with last quarter heroics which enabled the Wildcats to snap the Tigers' 30-game home winning streak.

Mississippi State had an all-American, too, a fellow named Jackie Parker way back there in 1952 the last time Auburn lost at home.

Parker either scored or passed for every Maroon touchdown that day in a 49-34 victory over the Tigers.

Kentucky's shocking win Saturday earns the Wildcats a tie with Louisiana State as The Constitution's Southeastern Conference Teams of the Week.

Without Hits, It's Rugged

CINCINNATI, (U)—Manager Fred Hutchinson was the first to admit Sunday that time is running out on his Cincinnati Reds if they are to come out of a hitting slump in the 1961 World Series.

The Reds took a 7-0 beating Sunday from the New York Yankees and the Yanks moved into 3-1 lead in the Series.

"There's not much you can say again," said Hutchinson. "We got shut out. We're not hitting and if you're not hitting it's hard to win."

pinch-hitter, and the Yankees gave reliever Jim Brosnan a rousing welcome.

Brosnan, author of "The Long Summer," had a long series comprised of three innings as strategy twice backfired in the form of intentional walk, a move which has failed a total of five times in the series.

With one away in the sixth, Howard doubled and Yogi Berra was handed an intentional pass. Thereupon, Moose Skowron outlegged a swinging bunt to jam the bases and set the stage for Cletis Boyer's two-run double.

Ford then injured his right toe on a wild swing before tapping into an unassisted double-play to Gordy Coleman. Coleman gloved the high hopper and stepped on the bag. Skowron, who had headed for home to draw a throw, couldn't get back. Coleman kept faking a throw, eventually tagging out Skowron himself.

The Yankees boosted their bulge to the final, 7-0, in the seventh. Richardson led with his third hit and took second on Vada Pinson's bobbie. An out later, Maris was intentional walked and Hector Lopez crossed up the Reds by drilling a two-run single after Brosnan uncorked a wild pitch.

It was a bruising afternoon for the Yanks, but not on the scoreboard. Berra suffered a slight cut over his eye when he made a futile dive for Chacon's drive in the sixth and his sun glasses broke. Frank Robinson spiked Richardson sliding into second in the fourth, and Mantle had to retire in the fourth due to pain from unhealed incision on a hip abscess. But it's the Reds, not the Yanks, who appear mortally wounded.

UPI SAYS HITCHCOCK TO MANAGE ORIOLES

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Billy Hitchcock, a former American League infielder and coach, has signed a one-year contract to manage the Baltimore Orioles next season, it was learned Sunday night.

An informed source told United Press International that the official announcement of Hitchcock's appointment will be made at a press conference in Baltimore Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. (EST).

Hitchcock, it was learned, was picked over Charley Dressen for the Orioles' job. Dressen was fired as manager of the Milwaukee Braves late in the past season.

"I thought he played a real good game," said backfield coach Charley Trippi. "It's true we called some plays from the press box, but Larry also called some and, we thought, did a real good job of it. The reason we called the plays was to take some of the pressure off the quarterback."

On fourth down, Gann sent fullback Mike McNames over tackle and he was spilled on the two. "Somebody just missed a block," Griffin said. "It was a good call. It's the same play we used to score a touchdown on Rice."

Tech coaches agreed with LSU's Paul Dietzel that the Tigers' goal line stand was the turning point in the bitterly fought battle.

Gann Missed By Inches

By JACK WILLIAMS

Football is a game of inches, and in Georgia Tech's case Saturday night, six inches may well have meant the difference between victory and defeat.

That's how close Stan Gann came to scoring in the third quarter when Louisiana State staged a great goal line stand and went on to whip the Yellow Jackets, 10-0.

"Our movies show that Gann was only about six inches short," assistant Tech Coach Jack Griffin said Sunday. "It was a real close play."

On fourth down, Gann sent fullback Mike McNames over tackle and he was spilled on the two. "Somebody just missed a block," Griffin said. "It was a good call. It's the same play we used to score a touchdown on Rice."

Tech coaches agreed with LSU's Paul Dietzel that the Tigers' goal line stand was the turning point in the bitterly fought battle.

"That was early in the third quarter," Griffin said. "If we had scored, it would have made it a different type game. LSU couldn't have afforded to play it so cozy."

"I'm not saying we would have won though. Even if we'd scored, LSU still might have taken it, 10-7."

Coach Bobby Dodd and all the Yellow Jackets gave LSU credit for a great defensive game. Dodd said that the Bengal line of scrimmage beat Tech's all night.

Charleston Club Moving, but Here?

By AL THOMY

The news pace stepped up Sunday night on the Triple-A baseball front.

From Cincinnati, Ohio, Bill MacDonald, owner of the Charleston, W.Va., franchise of the International League, said details had been completed for transfer to Atlanta.

He was quoted by A. L. Hardman, sports editor of the Charleston Gazette.

Charleston business manager Joe Ryan, speaking by telephone from Cincinnati, admitted "it has been announced that we will not return to Charleston next year, but I'd hesitate to say that plans are complete for Atlanta."

He added: "We've talked with Buzzie Bavasi of the Los Angeles Dodgers (owners of the Atlanta team in the Southern Association) and he told us he would cooperate

Hornung Pours Across 33; Bills Fell Houston, 22-12

NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay used a 33-point scoring spree by Paul Hornung Sunday to shock Baltimore 45-7 and retain a share of the No. 1 spot in the Western Division of the National Football League.

San Francisco punished Los Angeles 35-0 for the other half of the division lead. Also in the West, Detroit's suddenly leaky defense showed again as the Lions bowed before the Chicago Bears 31-17.

In eastern action, Dallas, Philadelphia, Cleveland and New York chalked up victories and remained in a tie for the division lead, all with 3-1 records.

Defending champion Houston fell two games off the pace and New York enhanced its lead in the Eastern Division of the American Football League by not playing Sunday.

While the Titans drew a bye in the schedule, the Oilers took a 22-12 hammering from Buffalo and landed in last place in the division.

San Diego had held firmly to first place in the Western Division by winning its fifth straight game Saturday night. The Chargers beat Boston 38-27.

Dallas whipped Denver 19-12 to hang strongly in second place in the Western Division. The Texans have lost only one game and that was to San Diego.

Buffalo almost sounded a death knell for Houston's hopes as it scored 15 points in the final period on the heroics of Warren Rabb. Rabb, with the Detroit Lions last year, hadn't got to play with Buffalo until Sunday. He came off the bench in the fourth period to direct a couple of touchdown drives that paid off with victory.

The defending champion Eagles came from behind twice and nipped determined but still winless Pittsburgh 21-16. Dallas swamped Minnesota 28-0. Halfback Bobby Mitchell starred in Cleveland's 31-7 conquest of hapless Washington.

The Packers' versatile Hornung, who scored a record 176 points last season, and Green Bay's pass defense were the keys to the rout of Baltimore. Hornung scored four touchdowns, kicked a 38-yard field goal and six extra points.

The defense was busily harassing the Colts' Johnny Unitas, intercepting four of his passes and one of Lamar McHan's. It was Green Bay's third straight victory and pointed them toward next week's key encounter with the Browns in Cleveland.

New York used its favorite weapon, its redoubtable and seasoned defense, as the springboard to its victory over St. Louis. The Giants held St. Louis without a first down in the opening half and jarred Etcheberry loose from the ball twice in the third quarter, each fumble setting up a giant touchdown.

Mitchell's touchdowns, on plays covering 52, 64 and 31 yards, highlighted the Browns' decision over Washington, the Redskins' 12th straight loss. The Eagles benefitted from a couple of interference calls in taking Pittsburgh. Detroit, which allowed only 28 points in its first two games but 80 in the next two, led 17-0 going into the fourth quarter against the Bears. Three quick touchdowns, with rookie Mike Ditka and Willie Gailimore starring, pulled it up for Chicago.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Rebs, Tide, Terps Rocket Dixie's Star

NEW YORK (AP)—Save your confederate money, y'all, the South is on the rise from Maryland to Texas.

At least here comes Dixie in college football, and it can thank that powerful kingdom—the Big Ten that's in its usual tightly-packed state with its balance and depth.

Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas are the current top numbers in the Dixie dynasty, but lending plenty of muscle after a weekend of squeaking and scraping are Maryland, Louisiana State and Arkansas.

Maryland left Syracuse, the last big undefeated eastern independent, in a shock-up state, upsetting the Orange 22-21 on a two-point conversion.

The Big Ten has little breathing room at the top, but promises to have a few showdowns immediately.

Iowa, the Big Ten's and the nation's top-ranked team got the scare of its life against all but forgotten Southern California last Saturday, edging the Trojans 35-34. A two-point conversion try by USC failed in the final minute and provided the Hawkeyes with their second victory of the year.

But Ole Miss, ranked second, made it 3-0 in 1961 and 18 straight without a loss in clobbering Florida State 33-0 with a fine all-round display of running and passing. Mississippi should have no trouble this Saturday either, tackling Houston.

Bama, Bear Bryant's revitalized giant, is also 3-0 after handing Vanderbilt its first loss, 35-6. Both Bama, ranked fourth nationally, and Ole Miss are vying for the Southeastern Conference title, but they don't meet this year.

Unlike the SEC, the Big Ten is going to get some of its title problems settled Saturday, when Michigan State and Michigan, ranked sixth and ninth before last Saturday's decisive victories, play before a national television audience. Iowa plays Indiana, and Ohio State, another powerhouse meets Illinois.

Michigan State spoiled Stanford's illusion of grandeur, beating the Big Five member 31-3. The Michigan Wolverines, back with their usual powerful ground game, rolled over Army, which had won its first two, 38-8.

Ohio State, ranked No. 8, rebounded from its first game tie against Texas Christian, and pounded out a 13-3 victory over UCLA.

Georgia Tech had its football revival halted abruptly by defensive giant Louisiana State, 10-0, as the third-ranked Yellow Jackets got next to nothing from the Bayou Bengals.

However, Notre Dame continued its campaign of vengeance, beating Purdue 22-20 on Joe Perkowski's last quarter field goal. The Irish have won both 1961 games, matching their 1960 victory total, and ended a three-year Purdue winning streak in their personal rivalry.

Texas, ranked fifth and yet to hit the tough part of its schedule, turned loose halfback Jimmy Saxton for a pair of touchdowns and easily beat pass-minded Washington State 41-8. Texas now must face Oklahoma this weekend before beginning its Southwest Conference grind.

The SWC got off to its usual mixed-up start as Arkansas trounced previously undefeated Texas Christian 28-3. Texas A&M ended a nine-game losing string with a 38-7 victory over Texas Tech.

Two other long losing streaks were also ended. Southern Methodist won its first in 14 games, upsetting the Air Force 9-7, while West Virginia, also winless since 1959, trounced Virginia Tech, supposed to be the power in its Southern Conference, 28-0.

Washington's Huskies surprised Pitt 22-17 in a last quarter drive, and California finally got quarterback Randy Goff healthy and held three-touchdown favorite Missouri to a 14-14 tie.

Duke dominated the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 3-0 record after beating Wake Forest 23-3.

Bleeding Mantle: 'Knew I'd Had It'

CINCINNATI (AP)—"I could see the blood coming through the uniform and I knew I had to quit. I just couldn't play any more. It hurt like the devil."

Mickey Mantle was explaining grimly why he left in the fourth inning of the fourth World Series game between New York and Cincinnati Sunday and why he didn't think he could play Monday. The Yankees won, 7-0, to take a 3-1 lead in the Series.

"It felt bad all day," continued the Yankees' switch hitting star. "I guess I shouldn't have played at all but I kept thinking it might get better. I figured it might be like a Charley horse and if I did some running it might get better. But it got worse instead."

Mantle missed the last week of the regular season and the first two games of the Series following surgery for removal of an abscess on the right hip. He spent several days in a hospital.

"I thought they would just lance it," he said. "Instead they cut a hole so big you could put a baseball in. The wound is still open. No stitches were taken. It's still bleeding."

Mantle, still naked, turned to show the thick bandage on his right side.

"I was told it's nothing to worry about," he said. "It's not a matter of life and death. Under normal conditions, it would heal in two or three weeks once it has drained."

"It's a shame," he moaned. "You play all year, you play even when you don't feel good, just to get into the World Series, and then you can't play in it."

Silver Shield - a New Public Service in Heating

Bureau to Check Quality, Performance

Leaders of the indoor comfort industry have united in an effort to improve the quality and performance of heating and air conditioning systems being installed within the Greater Atlanta area.

To accomplish this objective, a group of 30 local dealer-contractors, distributors and suppliers, representing most every make of home-heating and air conditioning equipment has set up an Atlanta Bureau to coordinate and direct this movement. Firms cooperating in this program are listed in the Bureau's advertisement shown at right, below.

The Greater Atlanta Indoor Comfort Bureau, Inc. was officially established Sept. 26 at a banquet meeting where Randall A. Nelson, representing the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association, presented the Atlanta organization with its Bureau authority. To qualify for this status, all firms in this program were required to enroll their key personnel in an extensive technical course of training. The school was conducted locally and covered 13 weeks of specialized instructions on the Standard of Quality and Performance that is to be built into a Silver Shield System.

The National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association recognizes the importance of making available to the public authoritative information on what a heating or air conditioning system must have for specified results. Realizing the difficulties usually involved in obtaining such information, the association is publicizing, through its authorized local Bureau, the specifications for Silver Shield Standards of quality and performance. The homeowner can obtain complete and accurate information on what can be done, and exactly how to obtain such specified results in indoor comfort.

The Silver Shield Program identifies the local dealer-contractors qualified to provide the Silver Shield Standards of performance in heating and air conditioning. It sets up the quality of materials to be used, the exact size furnace for the house, design of system, location of registers, thermostat and dozens of other factors the average homeowner knows little or nothing about. The system is carefully installed and properly balanced for each house according to rigid standards designed to guarantee quality and performance.

The homeowner no longer has to wait for years to know if the system is entirely satisfactory. The Silver Shield Program takes care of this important function by freeing the homeowner of any risk whatsoever when buying a heating or air conditioning system. The local dealer-contractor submits specifications of the job to the local Indoor Bureau. These specifications are checked by qualified, impartial inspectors before and after installation. If the system meets all specified requirements and can prove its quality in actual performance it is then, and only then, awarded the Silver Shield label. The Silver Shield badge is a mark of merit that guarantees the quality and performance of the entire system, including all component parts.

Anyone planning to build a new home, buy or remodel, is invited to get the facts about modern indoor comfort with the certified performance that is provided with Officials of the Greater Atlanta Indoor Comfort Bureau, Inc., are shown receiving their charter from the national association. The local officers are, left to right: Don M. Tolleson, vice president; Foster C. Law Jr., president; N. B. Estes, secretary; John S. Reid Jr., treasurer; and Randall A. Nelson, director of public relations, National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association. The dinner meeting also climaxed a 13-week program of technical instruction for 83 local heating and air conditioning men who qualified as Silver Shield members.

Williams Bros. Now Manufacturing Sturdy Ronel-Type Roof Trusses

A new operation at Williams Brothers Lumber Company is enabling builders to build faster and cheaper.

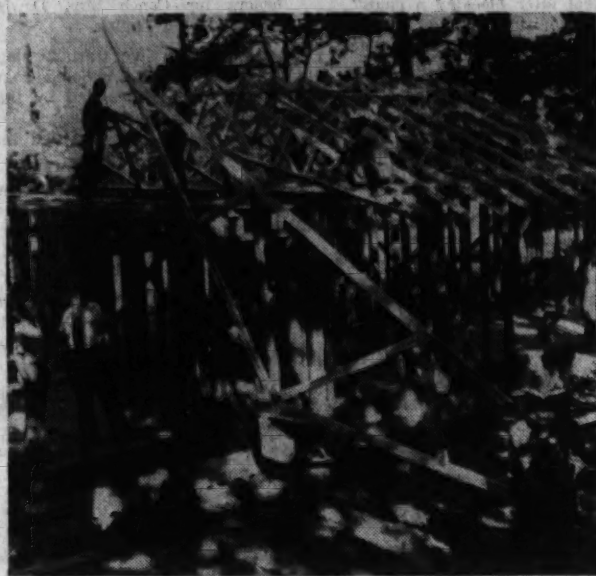

The company is now manufacturing roof trusses using the Ronel Barbgrasp system at their new plant (open since March) at 934 Glenwood Ave., SE. Both FHA and VA approved, this truss has exceeded the maximum load requirement in test after test.

Williams holds the franchise for Ronel-designed trusses in Fulton, DeKalb, Cobb, Gwinnett and Clayton counties.

"Trusses cost less than the conventional framing devices they replace," according to Harold Williams, vice president. "They may be placed, sheathed and the roof 'dried in' the same day, thus allowing the builder to better schedule his work and speed up his entire building operation."

Mr. Williams stated that the trusses being manufactured by Williams Brothers features a plate with a longer-than-usual barb, making better holding power possible. He said that the trusses are being utilized for new home construction, commercial buildings, and farm buildings, and that they are especially suitable for the building of chicken houses.

"We have gone to a lot of expense to set up this operation because we know that construction methods are changing and that roof trusses will revolutionize the building industry," he added.

A member of Vernon Smith Builders' crew hands up another wood truss manufactured by Williams Brothers Lumber Co. here in Atlanta. The trusses being utilized in the building of this new home at 1830 King Alfred Dr., SW, make use of the famous Ronel Barbgrasp system. See story for details on this revolutionary new system.

The type wood being used in the truss manufacturing operation at Williams Brothers is 1500F yellow pine. Due to the various methods of automation being employed—for example the roller press travels at a speed of 90 feet per minute—fast delivery, in specially designed trucks, is one of the most attractive features to builders.

Other advantages listed by Mr. Williams include: (1) Trusses make possible complete freedom of room arrangement since interior partitions are nonbearing. (2) Dry-wall may be installed on interior or exterior walls and ceiling of entire house before building room partitions. (3) Concrete stiffeners under interior partitions are eliminated in floor slab construction. (4) Through magazine and newspaper advertising, home buyers are aware of the fact that trusses provide a stronger structural system than most conventional framing.

Clothes Wet?—Power Low? —Family Solves Both Woes

It was rainy winter days and "wet clothes drying all over the house" that started Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bowen, 1902 Donna Place, Decatur, thinking in terms of Full Housepower and the convenience it affords.

The Bowens, who have three children, ranging in age from six months to four years, wanted to eliminate the bother of clothes-line drying by installing an electric dryer, but they were unable to do so because their wiring was insufficient to service the additional appliance.

Anticipating the purchase of a dryer, plus rewiring costs, didn't make the couple very happy, until they read about a Georgia Power plan that proved to be tailor-made for growing families such as theirs. To help Georgia citizens to Live Better—Electrically, the Power Company is paying up to $200 toward the installation of adequate service facilities in the homes it serves. The service entrance facilities installed are designed to serve the expected power requirements of the future, as well as those of today. To qualify, a customer must install certain 230-volt circuits and appliances.

Since an electric dryer is one of the qualifying appliances in the Georgia Power plan, the purchase of such a unit soon started the Bowens on the way to better electric living all around. They can now add to their stock of modern electric conveniences with the full assurance that their wiring is sufficient to meet their demands. Meanwhile, Mrs. Bowen has only the best to say about the appliance that paved the way to this assurance.

Mrs. A. C. Bowen, 1902 Donna Place, Decatur, is no longer at the mercy of backyard clotheslines and rainy weather. An electric dryer has brightened and lightened her days. Purchase of the marvelous new appliance also has enabled her and her family to participate in the Georgia Power Wiring Program, and thus enjoy the benefits of Full Housepower, a "must" for today's smart homeowner.

"Fluffier clothes that require less ironing," is just one of the results of the wonderful new installation. The housewife also finds that her electric dryer inevitably results in less worry and more leisure. She can go about her other chores while the clothes are drying. No mad dashes to the backyard to fetch them out of the rain. No unsightly clothes racks in bathroom, kitchen or hall when indoor drying used to be necessary. Best of all, since her electric dryer is fully automatic, she can visit with friends and entertain while this once so-troublesome task is being performed.

If you are not enjoying the time-saving convenience afforded by one of the many fine electric dryers available, plan to remedy the situation before the cold wet days just ahead. If you are uncertain as to whether or not your present service entrance facilities are sufficient to serve this additional appliance, phone one of the electrical contractors listed in the ad at left for a free Housepower Checkup. A small down payment can start YOU on the way to Better Living—Electrically.

Local Company Is Exclusive Aerotron Dealer

An economical VHF-FM two-way radio, weighing less than nine pounds, and with a guaranteed range performance of from 15 to 65 miles, is bringing a completely new look to the two-way radio and its growing number of users.

"We are proud to offer Aerotron, the first tried and proven totally new radio on the market today," stated Robert E. Wingate and Joseph A. Losito Jr., who head up Southern Communications, Inc., 562 Marietta St., N.W., exclusive distributors for the unit in Georgia and Alabama. "With an unparalleled power range of from 15 to 100 watts, and protection against unwanted signals and irritating static, Aerotron boasts power and price to suit most any operation."

The communications executives describe the latest Aerotron two-way radio set as one that will fit under the dash of any car or truck, including compact and foreign models. It weighs eight pounds, 10 ounces, is less than five inches high, and can be removed without the use of tools.

Precision hand-wired circuitry is used in the new Aerotron unit, with all field tuning adjustments made from the top of the chassis. Through the use of a "grated" final auto stage and a standby switch, the battery drain on 12 volts has been reduced to less than three amperes for the receiver and less than nine amperes for the full 15-watt transmitter output. Initially available only for 12-volt operation, the new Slimline may be interchanged from vehicle to vehicle without regard to battery polarity since the proper connections are made external to the set in the power cable socket.

Simmons Plating Works Observing 71st Year

Careful and discriminating housewives in and around Atlanta and from every state in the Union have learned of and appreciate the silverservice service offered by the Simmons Plating Works, 395-409 Whitehall St., SW. This famous Atlanta-owned, Atlanta-operated firm has been rendering a valuable service to homeowners for almost 71 years.

Chances are, you will be using your lovely silver often for those special festive parties and get-togethers. If so, now's the time to make a mental note to have your prized silver pieces repaired and replated at Simmons Plating Works soon as possible.

"We are certainly proud of our Aerotron Two-Way Radio System," states Horis A. Ward, of the Horis A. Ward ets, included for under-dash mounting, permits tilting of the set as well as a wide range of horizontal position adjustments to suit individual requirements. The entire set can be removed from the vehicle, if desired, without the use of tools.

Ambulance Service in Decatur. "We have found it to be the most compact and inexpensive system offered."

For $395 complete you can own the Aerotron Slimline—less than half the cost of large, bulky sets, and considerably less than comparable high performance units, according to its manufacturers, Aeronautical Electronics, Inc., Raleigh, North Carolina. In fact, the Aerotron lease or financing plan will actually reduce your Slimline costs to as little as 27 cents a day. Optical features include two or three channel operation and Unicall, as well as Aerotron's exclusive protection against unwanted signals.

In addition to Aerotron, Southern Communications Specialist Company offers closed-circuit TV, which is utilized to protect business concerns from loss by theft or to control man hours which are costly. The latest in modern testing equipment is put to work by highly qualified technicians to install and service all kinds of electronic equipment, including any other type unit in the two-way radio field.

For further information and free demonstration, write or visit Southern Communications Specialist Co., 562 Marietta St., N.W., or phone 524-8629.

Actors Demand Theaters Integrate

(Copyright 1961 by The New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK — Out-of-town theaters have been informed by the independent booking office, which handles the routing of stage attractions, that members of Actors Equity will refuse to appear in any theater permitting segregation either in front of or behind the footlights.

The new policy, which was agreed to "in principle" last May 31 by the League of New York Theaters and Equity, will become effective June 1, 1962.

Road playhouses were notified of the forthcoming action to give them ample time so that local measures could be adopted to out-law restrictions.

MEMBERS ADVISED

Members of the league, which consists of stage producers and theater owners, were recently advised of this procedure. Committees, representing the league and Equity, have been meeting to resolve problems that might occur.

"We understand that the plan includes theaters in Louisiana and Alabama as well as elsewhere in the South," it was reported Sunday by Herbert Hill, labor secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He added that his organization "is prepared to initiate litigation wherever segregation statutes are invoked."

AT QUARTERLY MEETING

Announcement of the new ruling was made by Angus Duncan, Equity's executive secretary, at the union's quarterly meeting Friday. He said restrictions would be lifted at all the legitimate theaters in the United States and Canada, where Equity members perform.

Coca-Cola Hitting New Sales Peak

4,000 Attracted By Convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Lee Talley, Atlanta president and board chairman of the Coca-Cola Co., said Sunday the firm is setting a new record this year in worldwide sales.

"The results of the first nine months of 1961 indicated the greatest year in the history of the company," Talley said at a news conference. "Worldwide sales are now greater than all other international brands of soft drinks combined."

The company's 75th anniversary convention will open here Monday, with some 4,000 expected to attend.

Expansion plans for 1961-62, Talley said, will include construction of syrup plants in Orlando, Fla., New Orleans and in New England. The company now does business in 110 countries.

Talley said the Coca-Cola trademark is being used illegally in Cuba, where company properties worth more than $5 million were seized by Fidel Castro's government.

Algeria Prepares For French Talks

By THOMAS BRADY

(Copyright 1961 by The New York Times Co.)

TUNIS — The Algerian Nationalist provisional government is prepared to discuss with French government representatives participation by the National Liberation Front in a "transitional administration" in Algeria and participation by the guerrilla National liberation army in an Algerian police force.

This information comes from authoritative Algerian quarters here, which emphasize, as do French administrators in Algeria, that neither the projected transitional administration nor the police force can be successful without nationalist participation.

Both institutions have been announced by President Charles de Gaulle as moves to prepare for self-determination in Algeria.

SWAP FEELERS

In preparation for a resumption of peace negotiations, the provisional government and the French government have been exchanging "feelers" for the last three weeks, with the Swiss Foreign Office as the intermediary or "post office."

The latter disclosure comes from an extremely reliable source which cannot be identified. It does not contradict statements by Algerians and French that negotiations have not yet been resumed and that, indeed, there has been no direct contact between the two sides since the unsuccessful peace talks at Lugrin on the French-Swiss border were adjourned at the end of July.

No specific information was available on the subjects touched on in the "feelers," but an atmosphere of optimism and confident expectancy in Algerian official quarters indicates that a resumption of negotiations is imminent.

WON'T PRESS DEBATE

The optimism is such that the Algerians have decided not to press for an early United Nations debate on their problem this year. Rather they will seek to postpone discussion until the end of the General Assembly session in hope that some sort of agreement may have been reached to which the assembly can give its "blessing."

News of this latter decision—which is contrary to the Algerian position in previous years—comes from extremely well informed nationalist circles.

Algerian nationalist spokesmen declare that recent statements by De Gaulle have been "positive," and the nationalist newspaper El Moudjahid said Saturday in an editorial which amount-

Poison Deaths of 2 Students Not an Accident, Police Rule

From Press Dispatches

CHAPEL HILLS, N. C. (AP)—Investigators have abandoned the possibility that two University of North Carolina students accidentally took the cyanide poison which killed them.

"It was either double murder, a suicide pact or murder-suicide," said Police Chief W. D. Blake Sunday.

"If we can locate the source of the poison I believe we'll be a long way toward clearing up the mystery," Blake added.

The bodies of James Michael Barham, 20, of Burlington and his roommate, William Harrison Johnson Jr., 24, of Statesville, were found in beds Friday in their dormitory room.

Detective Sgt. Howard Pendergrath and John Nesbitt, identification officer for the Chapel Hill police, questioned several persons Sunday in connection with the deaths. They said some new leads were being followed but declined to give any details.

Chief Blake announced Sunday night the arrest of a 30-year-old student on a charge of possessing cyanide capsules. He said the youth told him he took the capsules from a laboratory and that there apparently was no connection between the student's possession of them, and the deaths of the two students.

The police chief said officers "just ran across" the case of possession of the capsules by Ralph Sargent, Plainfield, N.J., while investigating the deaths. "We can't find any connection between this and the deaths," Blake said.

A six-man coroner's jury ruled Saturday that the deaths resulted from cyanide poisoning.

Barham and Johnson worked as self-help students in Lenoir Hall. Their bodies were found after they failed to report for work Friday morning. The room showed no signs of violence.

A student said he went to see Barham at 9:30 p.m. Thursday to pick up his laundry and that Barham appeared to be all right then.

About 11 p.m., however, three students said they rushed to Barham's aid when he suddenly fell backward out of a toilet stall. They said he lay on the floor in convulsions.

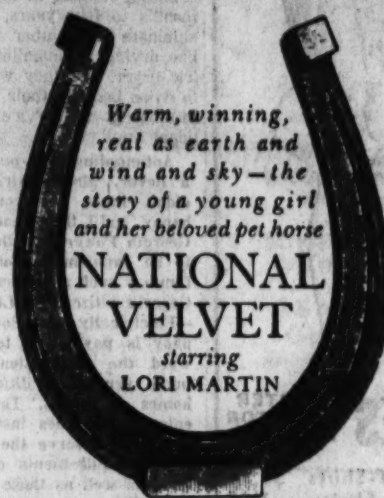

The students notified Johnson, who helped them carry Barham back to their room. The three students reported they offered to call a doctor, but that Johnson did not appear to be greatly concerned. Johnson assured them he would summon a physician if Barham did not improve.

Colorful History Marks the Decor

By YOLANDE GWIN

Mr. and Mrs. C. Vernon Ayers have a new address: 88 Ellis St. When the couple lived in Cartersville, soon after their marriage they wanted to return to Atlanta.

"We want to live in town, too," they agreed.

Well, they certainly are in town. They have the downstairs area on one of the city's most famous old homes. It was built in 1856 by the late William Bensell, pioneer Atlantan. For many years Mr. and Mrs. Bensell's niece, Antoinette Farnsworth Drew, lived with them and later inherited the big, rambling red brick mansion surrounded by many small gardens. It was in this home that Mrs. Drew was murdered—a crime that has never been solved.

The house has the beauty, characteristics and the charm of an aristocratic background. This combined with the good taste, priceless antiques and family heirlooms which Mr. and Mrs. Ayers have assembled, has restored the home to its original elegance.

The couple has the downstairs apartment.

10-FOOT DOORS

Ceilings are 13 feet high, doors are 10 feet high. In the drawing room, heavy rose-colored draperies from a Beacon Hill mansion are a perfect blend with the walls which now have a modern styling of plastic burlap in a soft muted shade.

Avocado green velvet covers Queen Ann chairs, while the oriental tastes of Mr. and Mrs. Ayers is reflected in the presence of several exquisite Chippendale chairs, as well as many sconces.

An alcove provides a conversation piece for many visitors. It is marked by a Madame Recamier sofa. A marble pedestal is topped by an antique porcelain urn.

The original mantel tops a fireplace outlined with colored tile. An interesting feature is the pair of wrought iron cherub wall brackets which Mr. and Mrs. Ayers have mounted on the end of the mantel.

Period pieces such as chests and chairs and a spool bed features the bedroom. The adjoining bathroom has an old-fashioned English wash stand. Victorian bronze curtain loopers are used for towel racks. The gold lighting fixture came from a French Railway caboose.

An applewood table with matching chairs upholstered in tapestry commands attention in the dining room. There also is an English serving table and a wine chest. A Sevres centerpiece made for Louis Philippe, is treasured by the couple.

And here's an idea: An old clock pendulum hangs upside down over the wine chest.

THREE DESKS

Adjoining the dining room is a den, marked by a ceiling-high bookcase, and a day bed. There are three interesting desks: One is a traveling draftsman table. Another was made on a Bartow County plantation by slaves. The third is a Queen Anne. Walls are dotted with historical items, including a land grant dated 1726 and a bronze chandelier that once shed light on ship passengers.

The rooms—five, including the kitchen—all have hard pine floors. Each is a connoisseur area filled with items of interest and beauty.

A side porch is so pleasing and so restful that it almost defies the fact that it overlooks one of the busiest sections of mid-city. The porch is surrounded by brick planters, all spilling over with ivy and seasonal vines. Urns and garden statues lend an air of formality.

Beware That Leftover Food-- Prepare Meals for One in Bulk

By PATRICIA DEATON
Constitution Food Editor of 963 Katherwood Dr., SW, looked forward to cooking a large meal for her two children and their many friends. But now her whole mode of life is changing—because she cooks for one!

Second in a Series

WORTH EFFORT

"I prepare food for more than one day at a time," said Mrs. Smith. "Cooking isn't worth the effort if the amount of food isn't enough to make the dish taste good," she added.

This busy senior citizen prefers frozen vegetables for many of her meals. She also emphasizes the cooking of roasts or whole chickens and refrigerating the leftover amount for later use.

Mrs. Smith gives an example of making use of leftovers. One of her famous dishes is baked squash in which leftover grits are added and baked with the cooked squash, onion, seasonings and butter at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

This senior citizen enjoys cooking—even for one—but what about the large number who protest?

Many grow careless and allow their appetites to flag. Some claim that food no longer tastes good! With the golden years come many physical changes, including a dullness of the taste buds. This explains why so many oldsters enjoy foods that are palatable and not highly seasoned.

AVOID PREPARATION

There are those who avoid meal preparation at home because they prefer the fellowship of friends in a local tea-room or restaurant. But what happens when they become too sick to walk to their favorite eating spot? Some make arrangements with relatives to bring hot food. Others—well—they turn to hot tea with dried toast! They need a hot nutritional meal and there are no substitutes.

True—there are many problems that the lone senior citizen must face, but there are also many answers that can make life happier and more enticing.

South's Recovery Held Disappointing

The Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta Sunday described the Southeast's economic recovery as "somewhat disappointing."

Its assessment was based on final August and preliminary September data on business conditions in the Sixth Federal Reserve District area of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, and parts of Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

PACE DISAPPOINTING

"The pace of economic recovery in the district has been somewhat disappointing," observed the bank's October Monthly Review, "at least to those optimists who expect every month to be better than the last."

It said that in August "most measures, seasonally adjusted, merely held the gains previously made."

"Manufacturing activity showed little change, as did consumer spending. Although agricultural prospects are bright, farm cash receipts actually declined."

TRENDS VARIED

Detailed trends, according to the bank's review, varied as follows:

Nonfarm employment in the district as a whole held steady in August. This over-all stability concealed small increases over

Mrs. Weeks Of Business World Dies

Mrs. Maud D. Weeks, retired Atlanta businesswoman, died Sunday in a private hospital. She lived at 9 East Lake Dr., SE.

Born in Ontario, Canada, she was reared in Chicago. She was the former Maud Doherty and was the widow of Herbert D. Weeks.

After her husband's death in 1918, she served as a U.S. Navy chief yeoman in Chicago during World War I. She later came to Atlanta where she became secretary to the vice president of the old Atlanta Trust Co. in the mortgage loans department.

From 1925 to 1930, she was manager of the real estate loan department of the John D. Carswell Co., Savannah. She had also been with the Radio Corporation of America in New York.

Since her retirement, she had been active in the East Lake Garden Club and the St. Mary's Chapter of the Episcopal Cathedral of St. Philip, having served as president of both organizations.

Survivors include a son, Robert W. Weeks, Atlanta, and two sisters, Mrs. Fred S. Gould, Atlanta, and Mrs. Charles S. Church, Chicago.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son, Spring Hill.

CONSTRUCTION RISES

Construction activity increased, as shown both by employment and the volume of new contracts.

The textile industry maintained the ground it had gained earlier, but it has not yet recovered the level it reached prior to the recession.

There are tentative indications that consumers may at last be loosening their purse strings. Preliminary figures show a sharp rise in September of department store sales, following a decline in August. Household appliance store sales also rose, contrary to usual seasonal behavior in August. Sales tax collections through July indicated a rise in consumer spending. Furniture store sales, however, were slightly off in August after several months of improvement.

FARING WELL

The farm economy is faring well, although setbacks have occurred in some local areas. Large harvests are in prospect for several major crops, notably corn, sugar cane, tobacco, soybeans, and pecans. In most places the open weather of recent weeks has enabled farmers to push ahead with their harvests and fall plowing and planting. Prices received by farmers for most of the important products increased in August, standing well above year-ago levels. Broiler prices were an exception. Although they rose slightly in August, they were still well below last year's. A decline in the marketing of meat animals reduced farm production in August and, with it, cash receipts.

Consumers went a little more heavily into debt in August. This time they were borrowing more for home repair and modernization and various consumer goods, but less for automobiles. The introduction of the new car models may change that situation in September and October. Consumer savings in the form of member bank time deposits and savings and loan shares increased at about the usual pace for this time of year.

Loans at member banks stubbornly refuse to advance with the general business recovery. A slight seasonally adjusted rise in August was followed by a decline in September. Total deposits after seasonal adjustment declined in August. Even time deposits, which have been advancing almost constantly, rose more slowly than in previous months. Member banks' reserve positions remained relatively unchanged from those earlier in the year.

Scrap Prices For Steel Leveling Off

CLEVELAND (U.S. Steel) — Steel scrap prices are leveling off after a nine-month climb to the highest monthly average in almost two years, Steel Magazine reported Sunday.

The metalworking weekly said steel mills should be using scrap at a high rate this fall and winter. "But it's unlikely that scrap prices will go up proportionately," Steel said.

"Many observers think prices will stay around present levels because increased needs will probably be met by hot metal from blast furnaces now idle. Some even think that prices could weaken if scrap exports continue to dip."

The metalworking industry generates large amounts of scrap, which is sold back to the steel mills to go into production of new metal.

Steel Magazine's composite price on No. 1 heavy melting scrap averaged $39.75 a ton in September, compared with $28.92 a ton last December. However, the composite was down slightly to $39.50 last week.

Labor conditions in the automotive industry continue to keep the steel industry from attaining expected production levels, the publication said, but predicted a possible upturn next month. "If new model sales are good, auto makers will probably order more steel for November delivery than they'll take this month," Steel said. "Until they step up their purchases, the steel market will have a hard time getting off dead center."

Good Health Just Nerves Can Blister One's Skin

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: What causes outbreaks of "little blisters" on the hands?—Mrs. J. M.

There's a substantial observation among many doctors, and I'm sure I'm not exaggerating when I say "nearly all doctors," that this is the sort of thing that often has some connection with jitters.

I am not saying that "nerves" is the sole cause, but I can't help concluding that "nerves" can help the balance of power. We know that tension has all sorts of physical effects. Nervousness has the nasty and natural habit of jumping in as a "trigger" for some condition that hasn't quite had the steam to break out under its own power.

Skin irritations, stomach upsets, headaches and asthma are outstanding examples of this sort of problem. Today we're discussing skin.

I have the strongest belief in the reality of "psychosomatic ailments" but I sometimes lose patience with people who put all the emphasis on the "psycho" and ignore completely the "somatic." The whole point of the word, of the idea, is that many of our problems are a mixture of both.

When a high-strung individual has persistent skin troubles, it is no less than common sense to try to help that person live a more placid, calm life, and to quit trying to be a perfectionist. Sedatives or tranquilizers may help for a bit.

But the "somatic," or physical condition is still there, too.

So for these "little blisters" on the hands, and sometimes elsewhere, here are some of the possibilities:

Allergy—sensitivity to something you touch. Poison ivy is obvious; but other plants, even potted ones in the house, may have a milder effect. Metal jewelry, paint, glue or stain used in a hobby are just a few other possibilities.

Another is nummular eczema or "housewife's eczema," which doesn't happen to be limited to housewives. Anyone with a naturally dry skin who frequently gets the hands wet is a possible candidate for little patches of blisters or rash. The defatting action of soap and water can bring them, too. Doctors, dentists and dishwashers sometimes encounter this problem.

Are you taking medicine? Aspirin, headache remedies, tonics, laxatives, vitamins or any medication may have reactions in some people. Oddly, sometimes a drug will cause a rash or skin reaction to appear again and again in the same spot. It's known as a "fixed drug eruption."

There are still other possibilities: Sensitivity to sun, nutritional deficiencies and some rather uncommon metabolic conditions. To help sort out the like from the unlikely consult a skin specialist. Often one visit will do more good than six months of hunting around for the cause by trial and error.

NEW COVER GIRL Goodbye, Liz! Hello, Jackie!

By BILL POPE

Those who criticized Jack Paar for taking his show to Berlin recently seem not to be aware of what's happened in the world of show business.

What has happened is clearly shown in the current issues of three or four movie fan magazines now adorning the newstands. On their covers are displayed—guess who. None other than John F. Kennedy and/or wife Jackie.

Mrs. Kennedy makes a solo appearance on the front cover of Photoplay, for example, where she is hailed in enormous type as "AMERICA'S NEWEST STAR—WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT HER FEARS." I'd be willing to bet that type was held over from a similar layout, a few years back, on Elizabeth Taylor or Marilyn Monroe.

Liz, who until recently dominated the covers of these fan magazines, gets the bum's rush on Photoplay's cover. At the bottom of the page, in relatively microscopic type, we are promised an "Exclusive" on "Why Eddie Doesn't Dare Leave Liz Alone..."

(Up at the top, in similarly wee type, another "Scoop" is dangled before our eyes. "May Britt, Sammy Davis & Baby—at Home!")

INSIDE, we come to the story, which says in part: "On July 2, the Associated Press sent the following paragraph to newspapers all across the country: 'For the first time in memory, the nation's top feminine star is not from Hollywood, nor is she an actress. She is, of course, Jacqueline Kennedy. . . . The chic First Lady has supplanted Elizabeth Taylor, Marilyn Monroe and other movie queens as the idol of young girls."

Further down the story says: "A Beverly Hills hair stylist notes that the girls who used to come in with pictures of Liz Taylor now ask him to make them look 'just like Jackie.'"

I'm afraid the tone of the rest of the story may be summed up in this paragraph:

"Why didn't President Kennedy kiss his wife after he took the oath of office? Hundreds of women asked that."

Elsewhere a note from the editor of Photoplay reminds us as follows:

"Franklin Delano Roosevelt was a star; Harry Truman is not. Generals Eisenhower and De Gaulle are stars; General Maxwell Taylor and Admiral Radford are not . . ."

CERTAINLY Eisenhower is a star. If you doubt it, check the front cover of this week's Amusements Guide. There he is. John Kennedy and Richard Nixon were the hottest TV stars of 1960. In Theodore White's book "The Making of the President," he quotes Kennedy as admitting that it was the impact of TV that pushed him over the top. Appearing on the Jack Paar show didn't hurt either Kennedy or Nixon.

Well, I can reconcile myself to the equating of politicians with stars. It's the stars who get into the political arena that gets me.

Thanks to his friendship with Peter Lawford (Kennedy's brother-in-law), Frank Sinatra's presence made itself known during the California segment of the presidential battle of 1960. Steve Allen makes speeches decrying the nuclear arms race.

Jack Paar, at one time, was a hot defender of Fidel Castro and, indeed, at one time took his crew to Havana, holed himself up in the Havana Hilton and interviewed members of the Castro pack. In the light of the new revolution taking shape in show business, I guess he had every right to do so.

When Caryl Chessman was electrocuted in California, who was one of the conspicuous demonstrators? Marlon Brando. Robert Montgomery frequently takes to the stump to boost the Republican party. (He also taught Eisenhower how to comport himself on TV). George Murphy is a prominent Republican.

Now you tell me: what's politics and what's show business? And what did Shirley Temple have that Caroline Kennedy doesn't?

As I See It They Said Addio, But All Ate Crow

By PAUL JONES

Crow seems to be a popular dish among Hollywoodites this season.

Already three heaping servings of the old bird have been served. Likely as not others will be eating some before the 1962-63 season.

Those who have sat down to plates of crow already are: Jerry Lewis, Robert Young and, of all people, Lee Marvin.

Each of these distinguished personalities said he was quitting TV—getting out of the "racket" to devote his energies to something better, something more rewarding.

But, lo, look what has happened.

All three have jumped back into the medium, head first.

Lewis, who vowed he'd never take another nickel from the lousy electrical theater had no sooner got the words out of his mouth than he was accepting invitations to appear on a long list of panel shows in New York.

Actually Lewis didn't accept the invitations to appear on I've Got a Secret, What's My Line and that sort of trivia because he needed the work or because he liked the medium or because he just wanted something to do with his spare time.

He merely wanted to tout his latest movie. Now you can't blame a fellow for that, can you.

Lewis ate his crow and enjoyed every bite of it.

ROBERT YOUNG was the second fellow to down a dish of the tough old bird.

He peddled his Father Knows Best to a network which currently is re-running them. Bob vowed he was through with TV.

"I wanna play golf—chase that little white pellet over the greens, through the roughs, in and out of the sand traps."

"I've got enough money stashed away," Bob chuckled. "I don't have to work."

Bob gobbled his dish of crow when he sheepishly said to his friends and the press that he would do a new series—Window On Main Street which is now featured on CBS-TV (Channel 5) each Monday night.

What about the golf game?

After Bob signed the new contract he went out to play a match and three putted every green on the course. He wound up in sand traps, behind trees.

It's all just as well. He didn't want to play golf anyway—not much.

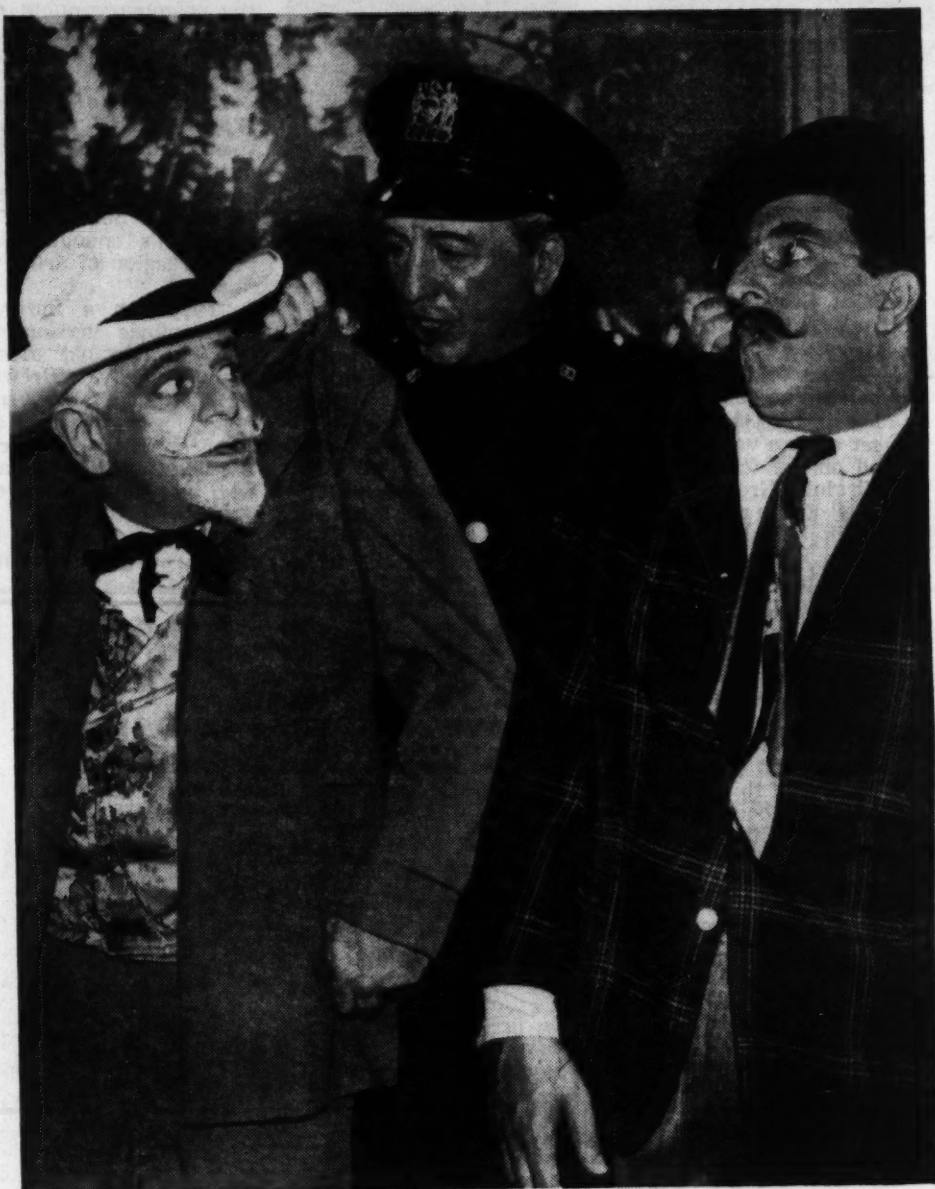

LISTEN TO THIS STATEMENT by Lee Marvin, who was so popular on the old M Squad show.

"Nothing fazes television, it just goes ahead. It's an advertising agency, let's not kid ourselves. You can't express yourself in TV. There are too many mores, either ad agency or network. That's limiting an artist and when you do that you end up with nothing."

With that Marvin stalked away from TV indicating he was giving the medium up for good. But he really didn't.

Lee is appearing Tuesday in Alcoa Premiere's "People Need People" and later he is appearing in a Route 66 episode.

Oh, well, actors are always crowing about something or other.

It's a Sad Season for Clowns

It's been said that all comedians, at one time or another, want to play "Hamlet." Well, several of television's foremost funny men are going to have an opportunity to get serious this week.

Shelly Berman (top) and Glynis Johns co-star as two everyday people who get trapped when they attempt to return some money "borrowed" to bet on a race, in "The $200 Parlay" Sunday at 9

Jonathan Winters Tony Randall on G-E Theater.

Tony Randall will star in "Button-Down Break" on Checkmate Wednesday, Ch. 5, at 8:30 p.m. and Jonathan Winters takes a cue in "A Game of Pool" on Twilight Zone Friday, the 13th. Groucho Marx is set for a serious role later on the G-E Theater.

One comic with a smile on his face is Danny Thomas, above, who stars with Sid Melton in the Danny Thomas show Monday. Sid Melton is the policeman who has literally picked them up.

LIVELY ARTS

You Need Hanky For New Film

By MARJORY RUTHERFORD

A classic four-handkerchief "woman's picture" starring Georgia's favorite adopted daughter, Susan Hayward—due at Loew's Grand Oct. 19—was "a delight to work in."

That's the word from blonde Virginia Grey, veteran of 200 Hollywood pictures, who came to Atlanta the other day to beat those drums for "Back Street." Miss Grey, a long-stemmed, highly-articulate actress, liked doing the Ross Hunter production for Universal-International for several reasons.

Marjory Rutherford

Among them: She became a good friend of Susan, who commutes between her Carrollton, Ga., farmhouse and Hollywood and other exotic movie locales.

The two hadn't met previously. They worked together for two months on "Back Street," and Miss Grey found Susan "a warm and nice person... a hard worker."

"She told me it was hard to go back to wearing high-heels on a movie set after a vacation period on the farm," smiled Virginia Grey, dangling one of her own sleek black alligator pumps from her comfortable perch on a downtown Atlanta motel's bed-like chairs.

Miss Grey plays Susan's sister in this movie version of Fannie Hurst's novel. She enjoyed the "wonderful clothes" both wear and the "solid scenes" of this old heart-breaker about a woman who must stay behind the scenes in her man's life. She's sure "all women and a lot of men" will like "Back Street," too.

ANOTHER GEORGIAN, writer Erskine Caldwell, had a hand in the picture now at Loew's "Claudelle Inglish." Diane McBain has the "child-woman" title role in the screen's adaptation of this lesser-known novel by the man famous for "God's Little Acre" and "Tobacco Road." That should be enough to tell you this film is for adults—a little on the tawdry side.

"ADULTS ONLY" label should also apply to the exceedingly controversial Italian import, "La Dolce Vita," held over at the Rialto. If you have three hours to ponder all the implications of this Fellini-directed shocker, you may agree with the title's interpretation: "Life is Sweet."

AH, LA DOLCE VITA With Anita Ekberg

A fine Italian cast is augmented by Anita Ekberg. Want to start a lively conversation? Just ask your friends what they think of it.

BUT FAMILY fare can be found here this week. A Walt Disney surefire-pleaser, "Greyfriars Bobby," now at the Fox, will delight dog-lovers and other gentle folk. This tale of a Skye terrier has the customary quota of chuckles, tears, and heart-cockle-warming scenes.

Then there's "Two-Way Stretch," one of those inimitable English comedies about lovable crooks, at the Peachtree Art. Peter Sellers stars, and that's enough said for his legion of art-film fans.

"Three on a Spree," latest movie version of that durable old melodrama-comedy, "Brewster's Millions," is the family-type fare at Rhodes. Britisher Jack Watling plays the man who just can't get rid of a million dollars.

Fine Art Cinema is holding its prize-winning war picture, "The Bridge."

The Roxy offers "Francis of Assisi," story of the beloved saint. This reviewer hasn't seen it, but some critics complain it's a "slick and synthetic" treatment. Bradford Dillman has the title role.

"Bridge to the Sun," based on the true story of American Gwen Terasaki, who married a Japanese, will start at Loew's Friday. Carol Baker and a Eurasian star, James Shigetia, co-star in a moving tale of a man who believed love and understanding could be a "bridge" between peoples and nations.

Friday the 13th brings another British comedy, "A Weekend With Lulu," to Rhodes. The Columbia release features hilarious carryings-on by the stars of "Carry On, Nurse"—this time in France.

Friday the 13th brings another British comedy, "A Weekend With Lulu," to Rhodes. The English stars of "Carry On, Nurse," cavort in this one.

Amazing Creamy Pomade

Tones Down Grayness Hair Looks Young Again

There are rich rewards today, for alert men and women... who look young. Don't let gray hair handicap you by making you look older than you are. Not when it's so easy and natural to use Herbold Pomade. You probably use a hair dressing anyway, so why not change to Herbold Pomade—the advanced, modern hair cream that really improves your hair, as it tones down grayness and gives your hair the young looking color it had before it turned gray. Herbold Pomade adds color to gray, streaked, off-color hair so gradually, and blends it so perfectly "without changing your natural color," that no one can tell you are using anything but a fine hair dressing. It's real easy to do at home. Rub a little Herbold Pomade into your hair (as you do any hair dressing), comb it—that's all! Do this daily, until grayness is no longer visible. Then 2 or 3 times a week to keep it that way. No long complicated directions, no patch tests, no mixing, no timing, no mess or bother. No confusion about shades. Just one Herbold Pomade adds the right color for your hair. Not a coal tar dye, tint or rinse. That's why you never have a dyed, artificial look, or a drastic sudden change in your appearance—or grayness next to the scalp. So if the years have stolen the natural oils and color from your hair, leaving it dry, dull, drab, streaked or a lifeless gray—start using Herbold Pomade today to replace the lost color and oils so vital to the youthful, healthy good looks of your hair. In 1 to 3 weeks your hair will look young again, without grayness. And regular use will keep it that way for as long as you like... the rest of your life, if you choose! As you get older, friends and others will think of you as one of those fortunate men or women who seems to never get old and gray. Herbold Laboratory guarantees it!

Movies End Taboo On Sex Deviation

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The motion picture industry has changed its production code to permit the subject of sex deviation on the screen.

The Motion Picture Association, representing most of the important movie-makers, announced the decision of its board of directors with the following ruling:

"It is permissible under the code for the Production Code Administration to consider approving references in motion pictures to the subject of sex aberration, provided any references are treated with care, discretion and restraint and in all other aspects conform to the code.

"The ruling in no way opens up the code to irresponsible or immoral or indecent scenes or treatment.

The new ruling would permit approval of the recently filmed "The Children's Hour," which deals with lesbianism.

Weirdie

Sandra Kerr appears in "The Weird Taylor" on NBC's Thriller series program with Boris Karloff as host. She will be seen in this play about a man who attempts to bring his son back to life on Ch. 2, Monday, 10 p.m.

IN GUNSMOKE

Kitty Getting Out Of the Barroom

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Kitty, head barmaid in Gunsmoke's Longbranch Saloon, is spending a little more of her time in the sunlight these days away from the smokefilled barroom.

For the past six years, Kitty, known outside the bar as Amanda Blake, was a permanent fixture in the Longbranch. She rarely spent much time outside her establishment, the prairies being left for Marshal Dillon and his sagebrush aide de camp, Chester.

But this year, Gunsmoke grew from a 30-minute show to an hour-long production and front office brass thought it would be a good idea to get Kitty out of the saloon.

IN SO DOING, they made life on the range a little more miserable than it was before. As proprietress of the Longbranch, the worst that could happen to Kitty was that she might get hit with a flying glass of beer, except for one occasion when she got shot.

This year, Kitty's life and limb will be periled more often than before, when she was used as the romantic interest for lanky and reluctant Marshal Dillon.

"They're putting me in a lot of strange places," said Kitty, who would consider anything strange that didn't have the tinkle of glasses. "I'll be out of the Longbranch a little more this year, like on the prairie.

"I get kidnaped, chased by renegades, fall into a trap, engage in a wrestling match, ride horses and get beat up," she said, adding sadly, "It's been a rough year."

WITH ALL THIS vio-

lence going on around her, winsome Kitty's hospital insurance may well have to work overtime repairing the lady's delicate figure.

However, despite the hard knocks she faces, Kitty is being very resolute and sees a ray of sunshine behind all the cuts and bruises.

Carney, Previn In 60's Romp

AG selects Sound of the Sixties, a special program of sights and sounds closely associated with the way Americans live and may live in the decade ahead, as the best bet Monday.

Featured in sketches and songs will be Art Carney, Vic Damone, Gogi Grant, Len Weinrib, Joyce Jameson, Ma-

Art Carney Vic Damone
Mahalia Jackson, Andre Previn and Tony Randall. John Daly is host.

Songs to be featured are "Yankee Doodle," "Make Somebody Happy," "Bless This House," "If I Loved You," "Shine On, Harvest Moon," "Fascinatin' Rhythm," "Shenandoah." (Channel 2 at 10 p.m.)

10 p.m., Ch. 11—In defiance of a mother's fanatical order against the use of blood transfusion on her critically injured daughter, Dr. Ben Casey proceeds with the life-giving measure in "But Linda Only Smiled," the season's second Ben Casey drama, co-starring Vincent Edwards and Sam Jaffe.

Woman Nearly Itches To Death

"I nearly itched to death 7 1/2 years. Then I found a new wonder creme. Now I'm happy," writes Mrs. P. Ramsay of L.A. Calif. Here's blessed relief from tortures of vaginal itch, rectal itch, chafing, rash and eczema with an amazing new scientific formula called LANACANE. This fast-acting medicated creme kills harmful bacteria germs while it soothes raw, irritated and inflamed tissue. Stops scratching—so speeds healing. Don't suffer! Get LANACANE at druggists.

A clinical eye masks the compassionate nature of dedicated neuro-surgeon Ben Casey. Vincent Edwards stars.

THE "SOUND OF THE SIXTIES"

TONIGHT 10:00 CHANNEL 2

Hitchcock, Astaire Debut

That old smoothie, Alfred Hitchcock—whose name is almost synonymous with outstanding mystery entertainment—starts his second season of Alfred Hitchcock Presents on Channel 2 at 8:30 p.m. AG's choice for this evening, the suspense show offers "The Hat Box," starring Paul Ford and Billy Gray.

Durable dancer-showman Fred Astaire will host and narrate Alcoa

Fred Astaire Alfred Hitchcock

Premiere, at 10 p.m. An hour-long drama, "People Need People," stars Arthur Kennedy, Lee Marvin, and James Gregory. The Channel 11 teleplay is built around the true story of Dr. Harry Wilmer, courageous Navy psychiatrist who tries a revolutionary experiment—taking strait jackets off disturbed patients in his care.

8 p.m. (Ch. 5)—The Dick Van Dyke Show has a funny new sequence. Ann Morgan Guilbert and Benny Rubin are featured.

9 (Ch. 2)—Dick Powell Show offers a chiller, "Killer in the House." Edmond O'Brien stars as an escaped criminal who threatens his brother and family.

Light, Gay 'Margie' Thursday's Choice

AG's pick for the evening is the premiere of Margie, a light-hearted, frothy family comedy series set in the 1920's and seen through the eyes of teenagers of the period. The 9:30 p.m. Thursday Channel 11 show should interest the whole family. Cynthia Pepper's in the title role, and first installment is called "The Vamp." Regular members of the cast will include Penney Parker, Hollis Irving, Wesley Tackitt, Dave Willock, Richard Gering, and Tommy Ivo.

Sing Along With Mitch will spoof the speakeasy era on a color show at 10 p.m. on Channel 2. Bob McGrath portrays a gangster called "Babyface" on this "Chicago Salute." Diana Trask, Leslie Uggams, and Gloria Lambert are guests.

8:30 p.m., Ch. 5—The Bob Cummings Show offers "Very Warm for

Lee Marvin Robert Stack

Mayan," with a Mexico setting and a thrill-packed plot.

9 p.m., Ch. 5—The Investigators has a tale about a religious tabernacle and its robed prophet. Guest star Lee Marvin is cast as the spell-binding religious leader.

10 p.m., Ch. 11—Ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower will outline sources of power of the chief executive of the United States and reveal his views on effective use of that power on first of the 1961-62 CBS Reports.

10 p.m., Ch. 11—The Untouchables has a new time slot and opens a new season with star Robert Stack in "The Troubleshooter."

THURSDAY'S "MARGIE" Cynthia Pepper

'Swan Lake' McRaes Top TV Viewing

Ballet-lovers have a treat in store Friday evening when Carla Fracci, 23-year-old prima ballerina of La Scala Opera in Milan, makes her American debut on The Telephone Hour, AG's Friday choice. With partner Jacques D'Amboise the Italian dancer, will present the second act "Pas de Deux" from "Swan Lake" on the 9:30 p.m. colorcast on Channel 2. Gordon and Sheila MacRae will sing seasonal songs.

Host Don Ameche will present the "Circus Williams" on Channel 2's International Showtime at 7:30 p.m. Friday. One of the largest circus troupes in Europe, it was founded in 1945 and offers six of its top acts for this show, taped last summer in Arnheim, Holland. Acts range from a Wild West Show to a sequence starring 10 Indian elephants.

7 p.m., Ch. 2—Sea Hunt presents a teleplay with an up-to-the-minute plot. Mike Nelson invades the Caribbean to find a missile launcher that has been placed within range of the U.S.A.

9 p.m., Ch. 11—Sunset Strip offers "The Inverness Cape Caper," starring Efrem Zimbalist and Edward Byrnes. The latter has his first role as full-fledged detective with costar Roger Smith.

10 p.m., Ch. 5—Rod Serling's Twilight Zone gives comedian Jonathan Winters a straight dramatic role in "A Game of Pool." Winters portrays a pool-player of legendary fame who returns to earth as a merciless tester of would-be champions.

Paladin's Off-Beat Yarn Best

Paladin rides again in AG's Saturday evening choice, Have Gun, Will Travel, on Channel 5 at 9:30 p.m. An off-beat plot should tickle the fancy of Paladin's legion of fans. Farmer Henry Grey, who never has any fun and is dominated by his mother, hires Paladin to help him retrieve his pride—and the price he paid for Calie, a fun-loving Greek mail-order bride who left him for a neighbor.

Lawrence Welk Richard Boone

The Lawrence Welk Show will be devoted entirely to country and Western music in first of four special programs to be presented by the popular music series. You can tap your foot in time with Welk and Company at 8 p.m. on Channel 11.

5 p.m., Ch. 2—All-Star Golf covers a match between Gary Player and Jerry Barber with Jimmy Demaret as commentator.

7:30 p.m., Ch. 11—Leave It To Beaver has a lively episode in which Wally's first car causes a family crisis.

8:30 p.m., Ch. 5—The Defenders presents "The Young Lovers," a tender drama about secretly married teen-agers.

Benny Back With Big Guest List

Jack Benny returns for his 12th season Sunday—a red-letter day for many fans of this grand old man of comedy. AG picks his opener on Channel 5 at 9:30 p.m. not only for sentimental reasons but because it sounds like a whale of a show. Phil Silvers is Benny's initial guest, and Benny has already filmed shows for future Sunday nights with Raymond Burr, Mickey Rooney, Tennessee Ernie Ford, and Bobby Rydell.

Jack Benny

9 p.m., Ch. 11—Bus Stop brings an hour-long drama, "Success Story," set in the small community of Sunrise, Colo. Marilyn Maxwell's guest star is James Whitmore.

10 p.m., Ch. 2—Du Pont Show of the Week stars Frank Lovejoy and a beautiful redhead named Sandy Smith. Lovejoy plays a Gestapo officer and Miss Smith is his paramour in "The Battle of the Paper Bullets."

11:15 p.m., Ch. 11—Great Show presents "California Conquest," costarring Cornel Wilde and Teresa Wright, a drama about Spanish Californians in the old days of Mexican rule.

O'Neill Tragedy Due Here Saturday

By STUART CULPEPPER

Riding a successful crest of enthusiasm since its fine productions of the Shakespeare Festival, the Academy Theater is now about to present another great author to Atlanta audiences.

Eugene O'Neill's tragic "Moon for the Misbegotten" opens Saturday at the Academy Theater, 1429 Peachtree St. The play, opening the new season for the theater group, will have a six-day run.

"Moon for the Misbegotten" is among the last of O'Neill's plays and it ranks at the top of his list of great works. It provides a brutal and courageous exploration into the personal conflicts which O'Neill himself found necessary to face—and which he wrote about with great depth of insight, warmth, and humor.

This play marked the first time since the notable "Strange Interlude" that O'Neill had built a play around a woman character who is appealing in her universal humanity.

It was also the first time since "Desire Under the Elms" that he had created a powerful peasant drama of such primitive emotions.

Josie, the protagonist, is a unique superbly written woman. She is oversized, powerful, and yet womanly in proportion. She is the daughter of a tenant farmer, Phil Hogan, a primal father gone sarcastic, vicious, shrewd and crafty.

Through her decent and deserving struggle and yearning for fulfillment, Josie emerges as a truly tragic figure. And by the end of the play she has achieved some insight, an objective awareness of herself, her father and Jim Tyrone, the man she loves.

Under the direction of Frank Wittow, the cast includes Paul Boering, Gloria Maloof, Carry Bynum, Sid Davis, Sydney Walter and other members of the Academy Theater Acting Company.

'Candid Camera' Eyed by Network

NEW YORK—The producers of Candid Camera said they expected the show next Sunday to be devoted entirely to filmed sequences made in Moscow last summer by Allen Funt. CBS-TV has said, however, that it did not know what the show's content of that date would be.

There have been trade reports that CBS was giving special study and consideration to Funt's Candid Camera.

WORK IS LIFE

By George C. Paulk, Jr., D.C., Ph.C.

Do you complain about your work? Do you let it get you down? Do you become a slave to your task? That is not the proper approach.

Someone has said, "Work is life—good work is good life."

The secret of doing good work without fatigue is plan your work, organize it, and do it on time. Do first the things you least like to do, get these tasks behind you; then you will always be looking forward to the things you can do with delight.

Putting things off, piling things back, letting jobs accumulate, make the going tough. Jobs left half-done are never completed and no one can find delight in an unfinished product. Do everything well and do it on time. That is the only way to find satisfaction in your work.

Perhaps you will say that you slight your work because you don't feel well—you are sick, you are nervous, your head aches, you dread to meet your tasks. Sometimes dreading things and worrying about your job are what makes you ill. Of course there are times when illness results from other causes. When this is true you should seek the basic cause and have it corrected.

One of the most common causes of health problems can be traced to the spine where a vertebra has slipped out of normal position and locks, thus causing nerve interference. When this happens, functions are disturbed, resistance is lowered and, sooner or later, you are a victim of ill health.

Chiropractors locate and correct this spinal cause of disease so that health returns naturally and a more abundant life is possible.

Teen-Ager Aboard

Bob Cummings portrays an adventurer with an Aerocar (an automobile which converts into a plane) on the new series, the Bob Cummings Show, which is seen on Channel 5 Thursdays at 8:30 p.m. Teen-ager Roberta Shore will appear regularly.

YOUNG PANELISTS

Teens Do Talking On Own Air Show

By PATRICIA HARRISON

"We keep questions on their problems; they have plenty of them," said Paul Drew, the mentor of Teen Panel which comes nightly over WAKE and gives teen-agers from schools throughout the city a chance to talk about themselves, their elders and their schools with enthusiasm and ease.

The program has been growing in popularity since Paul Drew began it in July. Originally the program ran from 9:30 till 10 p.m., Monday through Friday, but this fall it is being expanded to include another 30 minutes entitled Teen Topics.

"Teen Topics will be done in connection with the Board of Education and will be something like school commercials, making announcements and such things as a list of good study habits, and other items directed specifically toward teen age students and their problems," Drew explained.

Teen Panel has been successful, because it gives teens the opportunity to talk about teens. It is not a show in which teens are talked about by others, Drew pointed out.

Every Saturday morning "the regulars," 30 students from various Atlanta high schools, come together, sometimes bringing a guest, and record the panel sessions for the following week. They are given five printed questions which they answer spontaneously.

"The questions range from 'are you proud of your school?' to 'do teen-agers gamble?', 'do teen-agers use profanity' and 'do teen-agers talk back to their parents?' The answer to all of these questions was, yes, most of them do."

After each "regular" has answered a round of questions, they are asked to name the favorite song as polled at their school the preceding week.

CAST OF ODDITIES

Comic Plays Hitler, Pug Is 'Heavy' in DuPont Show

NEW YORK—One of the most unusual dramatic casts in TV history has been assembled for "The Battle of the Paper Bullets" on Du Pont Show of the Week color broadcast at 10 p.m. Sunday on NBC-TV (Channel 2).

The factual drama about a German plot to win World War II by flooding the world with "perfect" counterfeit bank notes has two performers making their dramatic debuts; two comedians in serious dramatic roles; a singer and an ex-prizefighter in dramatic portrayals, and two established acting headliners in roles completely out of character.

Producer Eugene Burr said:

Casting "oddities" on the program include:

Frank Lovejoy—The star-hero of television's Meet McGraw and numerous motion pictures has the role of Nazi Major Ludwig Gesner; it is one of the rare times Lovejoy has been a TV "heavy."

Cesar Romero—The suave movie hero, infrequently seen on TV, plays Jan Lukas, a tormented Austrian Jew and victim of the Nazis.

Cliff Norton

Jerry Lester

Jerry Lester—Comedian Lester, long absent from network TV (he was host of Broadway Open House during 1950-51), makes his dramatic debut as Janusz, a Romanian gypsy condemned to the gas chambers.

Enzo Stuarti—The Broadway singing headliner has his first dramatic role, that of Paul Girard a French underground fighter dying of tuberculosis.

Cliff Norton—The veteran comedian and character actor plays Adolf Hitler.

Paul Tripp—He plays Manheim, another concentration camp victim. Tripp for many years was "Mr. I. Magination" of the children's TV series.

Lou Nova—The heavy-weight contender during 1936-45 (KO'd by Joe Louis in a championship bout) plays Kleist, a sadistic captain of S. S. guards.

Worth Knowing

An acquaintance told us of a maxim he had seen hanging on the wall in the office of a business friend which read, "Happiness is not found in doing what one likes, but in liking what one has to do," and he said that for a long time he could not figure out the last part of it. He said, "Just how can you like what you have to do, if you simply don't like it?" Well, he says he finally discovered the answer through his own practical knowledge. He explained, "As everyone knows from his own experience, we dislike games, tasks, or jobs that we cannot do well, and tend to like the things in which we excel. Usually the only way we ever become good or skillful at anything is through hard study and steady application, with a constant trying for improvement. So, that's the answer . . . the most disliked job, once it is mastered, becomes a source of pride and satisfaction."

He formerly had been only fair in his line of work, and thoroughly disliked everything about it. But once he got so mad he determined it wasn't going to lick him, and that was the turning point. Through real effort, study and practice, he gradually improved, and one day, he says, "I was surprised myself to find I was working along rather happily . . . and I saw that the results were getting to be something I could be proud of . . . from then on, I liked what I had to do."

He has said it so well we cannot add anything helpful, but when we hear of such things, which are basic ideas that can profoundly affect our lives, we like to pass them on, hoping that others will get as much from them as we do.

UNTOUCHABLE, HAH!

Why Not Change Capone to Jones

By CHARLES MOORE

It's now time that the writers of television crime shows steal a lesson from the writers of television commercials. It'll keep them out of hot water boiled by the self-named defenders of the public good, and might keep their shows on the air.

The case at point is The Untouchables. The sponsors of that program, the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co., have announced they're no longer willing to pay for the show. The & M give reasons. L are a change in program time and the protests from "Italian-American" groups that too many of the gangsters have Italian names.

Now, the writers can't do much about the change in program time except write such good shows that viewers will track them down even in the worst viewing hours.

But on the names, they can do something.

By stealing an idea from the commercial writers, those who lean heavily on "Brand X" as the villains of the business world. Thus the bad men on TV would be merely—and decently—identified as "Criminal Y" and it wouldn't disturb the feelings of anyone—unless his name happened to be "X" or "Y" but people with those names don't do much consumer purchasing.

It's difficult to understand why the Federation of Italian-American Democratic Organizations—what ever that organization is—should object to the number of gangsters bearing Italian-sounding names on The Untouchables.

The Untouchables deals loosely with the efforts of federal agents in the Roaring 20s to curb crime. And at that period of American history, Italians were in the position of social development of all minorities that have not been integrated into the economy of the majority. Before the Italians it was the Irish who dominated American crime, and afterwards it was the Negroes. And the reasons have nothing to do with race, religion or national origin. It's just

What About Calling It Paar Heights?

What's in a name?

Ask Chet Huntley and David Brinkley. They've just had two streets in a swank subdivision here named for them.

Or ask the builder who developed Westfield subdivision, north of Buckhead, in which Huntley Drive and Brinkley Lane are located. The builder, Howard Chatham, said houses on the two streets, which intersect, incidentally, sold very rapidly. The houses ranged in price from $32,500 to $39,500.

The names were chosen by 20 women who sell real estate in that area. They voted unanimously to name the streets after the popular NBC-TV news team.

at certain periods, a sizable number of minority groups feel that the only way they can earn a decent living is by resorting to crime.

But short of changing Al Capone's name to Tom Jones, the only way out for writers of crime stories of the 1920s is to start calling their criminals "X" or "Y." Or maybe switch to writing westerners where you don't have to name the badmen, just dress them in black clothing.

NIGHT LIFE

Dancers, Comics Hold Sway Here

By TONY MIDDLETON

A group of Southern Colonels, headed by a Yankee, and a Hawaiian girl who gave up hula dancing for the bull fiddle, are currently entertaining Atlanta night club audiences.

The "Colonels" are a trio appearing at the Monte Carlo Lounge of the Riviera. The group is composed of Col. Al Raymond who plays accordion and bass; Col. Ray Wood, who presides at the guitar and banjo and Col. Jimmy Snider, who plays an unusual combination of instruments—trumpet, violin and drums.

The "Colonels" say their southern-flavored music goes over in the North as well as it does in the South but Col. Snider, leader of the group, who, incidentally attended Miami University, says he prefers to work in the South. He's the Yankee.

Their music is very listenable.

THE HULA DANCER who gave up dancing to devote her time to the bull fiddle is Tapu Manesfield, a Hawaiian girl, who is currently appearing with her playmates at the Gypsy Room. Her playmates, Larry Jones, Bob Bouto and Von Gammon, accompany her as she sings and plays. Tiaka, who is half French and half Chiapa Indian, and who speaks four languages, is featured on the same bill.

THE DOMINO LOUNGE is featuring a unique comedy team known as Wick and Brand. This team has been together for three years, mixing banter with jazz. Most of their material is original. Their act is fast paced. Vel Chessy, exotic dancer, and Alan Van, comic emcee, are featured in the show with Wick and Brand.

A FAIRLY NEW and highly promising comedy team who call themselves Carne and Paul are currently carrying on at the Club Peachtree. Carne, emcees the show and keeps things rolling at a good pace.

A number of capable entertainers are featured. One is Stella Garra, a petite young singer who is playing her eighth engagement at the Peachtree

SOUTHERN COLONELS PLAY AT RIVIERA

Club. Tony and Lolita, a Latin American dance team, and Memarie Kitty, exotic dancer, provide exciting entertainment.

BIG ROY TOPPS is wooing the crowds at the Zebra Lounge and is starting his sixth week here. Some nights it is difficult to find a seat in this choice little night spot, but come see for yourself. . . . At the Bayou it is the Rupert Du Sauzay native dancers, doing the limbo for their 11th week. These dancers offer a different type of entertainment. They invite you to come out and try your skill at the limbo. We were lousy at it.
